FINNS STILL HOLDING ON

Huge Mobilization of Reds Equal to Double Number of Males in All Finland.

(By Associated Press)
HELSINKI—The Finnish telegraphic agency circulated a report today that Soviet Russia—irked by Finland's resistance—is massing 1,500,000 first-line soldiers for a crushing blow.

This array of manpower—nearly equal to the male population of Finland and perhaps double the number of men now engaged on both sides of the war—would be supported by 1,000 planes, the agency said.

The major thrust, according to the agency, is expected in the Karelian isthmus, where Finns, entrenched in the zig-zag line of fortifications called the Mannerheim line, have fought off Red invaders since the war started 14 days ago.

The source of the report was not specified. The agency merely said such information had come into its hands.

Word of the imminent broadening of the Red campaign followed closely upon a Finnish communique yesterday reporting that Finnish troops and planes had smashed a large-scale offensive on the Karelian isthmus and eastern, or Lake Ladoga, fronts.

Apparently the eastern phase of the Russian drive was part of a wide flanking maneuver against the Mannerheim line—an attempt to round Lake Ladoga for an assault on the eastern part of the strong isthmus defenses.

The fighting appeared to be some of the war's severest.

"The enemy launched a powerful attack today along several sectors of the Karelian isthmus," the communique said.

Claim Reds Turned Back.

"Hard fighting took place all day, especially on a hill overlooking a church at Muola. Almost a com-

Public Barred In Funeral Plans For Actor Fairbanks

SANTA MONICA, Cal.—(AP)— Douglas Fairbanks, sr., will make no curtain-call in death for the world that thrilled to his dashing career on and off the screen.

His sudden death by heart attack early yesterday placed his beautiful widow, the former Lady Sylvia Ashley, under the care of a physician and until she recovers funeral arrangements will remain tentative.

However, his business manager, Clarence Reicksen, indicated that, unlike the services for Will Rogers, Jean Harlow and other film notables whose mourning public gathered by the thousands, Fairbanks' services will be quiet and private.

It seemed likely that only close friends would be admitted to services in the Wee Kirk O' Heather in Forest Lawn Memorial park.
The funeral probably will be tomorrow or Friday with interment in a crypt at Forest Lawn.

STEAMER SINKS

87 Perish, Hundreds Missing as Red Ship Goes Down.

TOKYO—(AP)—Eighty-seven persons were known to have died and between 200 and 500 were believed to be missing today in the sinking of the Russian steamer Indig-irka off the island of Hokkaido.

The Japanese foreign office announced that the Karafuto Maru, Japanese steamer, had rescued 390 of the Russian vessel's passengers and crew.

Reports as to the number still missing conflicted, however.
The foreign office said the cause of the sinking was not known.

Hokkaido is the northernmost of the main islands of Japan.
The Indigirka, 2,690 tons, went down yesterday. High seas hampered rescue operations.

A total of 123 persons have been killed and more than 158 injured.

Imported Goods 'Stored' in Bucyrus.

The Christmas spirit already is a charred ember for one Mansfield man whose savings were wiped out yesterday when he succumbed to the blandishments of a confidence man.

The proprietor of a north side restaurant and the father of four children let his sympathy for a fellow countryman run away with his judgment yesterday afternoon when he drew $520 out of his savings account and handed it over to a stranger who literally "spoke his language."

The Mansfield man was left standing at the bank while the confidence man escaped. Police had little hopes today of tracing him.

The stranger came to the restaurant Monday night and told the proprietor that he was a fellow Romanian who had landed in New Orleans several weeks ago with a valuable stock of merchandise which he had purchased in England. He told his victim that it easily could be sold for much more than the $520 he was asking for it, but that he did not dare to sell it himself.

Pays But Never Sees Goods.
He explained that he had stored the goods in Bucyrus and would take him over to see the stock as soon as the money was paid.

The action was taken by the noon. The 45-cent payment brings dividend payments for the year to $1.40 a share. About 157,000 shares of stock are out-

Dividend payments will be made

STATE WIPES OUT $45,000 RICHLAND DEBT

Ruling Exempting County
From Old Hospital Bill Comes as Yule Gift.

PILED UP FOR EIGHT YEARS

Action by State Also Slashes Annual Cost of Caring for Feeble-Minded to $9,000.

The state had wiped out virtually all of a $45,000 debt against Richland county today to give the county one of the best Christmas gifts it has had in a long time.

County Auditor Norman L.
Wolfe said a new state ruling exempts the county from payment of most of a $45,000 debt for keeping its feeble-minded patients in state hospitals and slashes about $6,000 from the annual expense to the county.

The cost per patient per week was reduced from $5.50 to $3.50 and made retroactive to 1932 which almost voided a debt that has been piling up for at least eight years.

Cuts Annual Bill to $9,000.
The reduction in rate, Wolfe said, will cut the county's expense from about $15,000 a year to approximately $9,000.

"The county has been unable to keep the state hospital bills in the past, but the cooperation of the state in reducing the rate will enable us to pay the bills on time now," the auditor said.

The county today had received $2,313 from the state and federal governments for aid to dependent children and the blind during December. Of that amount, $1,227 represented the state allocation and $1,086 was in federal money.
The county will provide an amount equal to the state's allocation on a matching basis.

COUNCIL TO ACT

Decides Tomorrow If It'll Join in Route 30 Project.

Council will meet at 8 p. m. tomorrow to decide if it is willing to contribute $30,000 for the proposed West Fourth road grade crossing elimination project or if it will reject the state's latest offer.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter called the special session as the result of the new financing plan advanced by the state last week which calls for $5,500 more than the city originally agreed to contribute.

Robert S. Beightler, state highway director, has notified officials that Friday is the deadline for setting up the project.

Hunter said he would recommend to council that it accept the
$13,000 for paving and 85 per cent of the cost of right-of-way and property damage, provided the latter be limited to $17,000.

Committee Oks Resolution To Condemn Reds

Argentina Leads Way To Ouster With Warning She Will Resign If Soviet Remains; Special Committee Favors Removal; Action Possible Today.

BULLETIN
ROME—(AP)—Diplomatic circles said tonight they had learned that the new Russian ambassador to Italy, Nicolai Gorelchin, left Rome suddenly yesterday for Moscow without presenting his credentials.

(By Associated Press)
GENEVA—A 13-nation committee of the League of Nations today adopted a resolution condemning Russia as an aggressor and containing an implied demand that Russia be ousted from the league for invading Finland.

The resolution, which was then submitted to the league assembly, which may act on it tonight, incorporated a report drawn up by a sub-committee "inviting" league members to give Finland all possible aid.

In addition it suggested that non-member nations such as the United States might be asked to join in helping Finland if the League of Nations council desires.

The report now goes to a special 13-nation committee considering the Russian-Finnish conflict before being submitted to the league assembly and then to the council.

Approval of the part naming Russia an aggressor and suggesting aid to Finland seemed certain since only a majority vote of the assembly is necessary. Action on expulsion of a member requires a unanimous council vote.

The sub-committee also condemned Russia as a violator of the league covenant and recommended putting the entire technical staff of the league—its economic, health and financial experts—at Finland's disposal.

What action the league council, which must unanimously approve expulsion of any member, would take remained uncertain since one council member, China, is indebted to Russia for aid against Japan.

Russian spokesmen predicted the Soviet Union would be expelled "within 24 hours." British and French spokesmen went as far as to forecast that a resolution calling for such action would be sent to the assembly and council.

Several steps in league procedure on the matter remained.
The 13-nation committee considering the Russian-Finnish problem must pass on the sub-committee's recommendations before submitting it to the league assembly and council for final action.

down in the League of Nations on

ATTACKS: Paris Claims Nazi Patrols Lose In Scores Of Raids

PARIS—Under the guise of patrol actions, German forces on the western front launched six small attacks against French outposts today along with scores of small raids along the sector east of the Moselle river to a point northeast of Bitch.

The activity centered most heavily between the Warndt forest and the Saar river.
The assaults began when a number of prowling German patrols suddenly coalesced into full-fledged attacking parties of several company sections each, which raided three French outposts before dawn.

Two outposts were outnumbered by the Germans but one fought back stubbornly and a close battle raged for several hours under artillery and grenade bombardments until the French finally won out with the aid of their deadly automatic field artillery.

One of the other French post crews retreated but later recocupled the position, which the Germans abandoned after holding it only a short time.

Later in the morning the Germans repeated the same raids, but French fire caught and repulsed them before they were able to reach the French advanced lines.

SAFE: Bremen In Port, Nazis Scoff At British 'Mercy' Claims

BULLETIN
BUENOS AIRES—(AP)—British naval officials said today they were investigating reports that the 7,030-ton British cruiser Achilles had been sunk in a battle with Germany's 10,000-ton pocket battleship Admiral Scheer but had been unable to obtain any direct information.

(By International News Service)
BERLIN—British war planes as well as a submarine failed in attempts to sink the luxury liner Bremen on her homeward dash from Marmansk to an unnamed German port, it was charged in Berlin today.

While the $20,000,000 vessel was taken over temporarily by military authorities for a routine inspection, the German high command announced that British aircraft which cruised over the Heligoland light last night "were under orders to bomb the Bremen after the failure of a submarine to sink her."

(Editor's note—The British air ministry announced that R. A. F. planes carried out "patrol flights" over German mine-laying and aircraft bases in the Heligoland light last night.)

When military inspection of the Bremen is completed, the vessel will be handed back to the North German Lloyd line, thoroughly overhauled and kept in "sea condition."

MASTER MINDS WAGE TIRELESS POLITICAL WAR

Publicity Experts for Both Parties Waiting to Learn Who'll Be Nominated.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—Two typewriters in the capital keep the political battle going day in and day out. When the "INS" are busy governing and the "OUTS" are busy running their private affairs, these two machines turn out the words that help to clarify issues.
Behind the typewriters sit Charles Michelson and Franklin Waltman. Michelson is publicity man for the Democratic National committee. Waltman is ditto for the Republicans.

For the next six months, these two will carry the ball in a game where the quarterbacks are sitting on the bench. Until the national conventions pick their candidates for president next summer neither will know who his team's hero is.

Their year-in-year-out job of pointing-with-pride and viewing-with-alarm what Michelson calls "the dull routine of political propaganda"—will go on, gathering steam as the 1940 campaign rolls closer.

They work with the policy-makers, researchers and money-collectors who head up the national party. They have nothing to do with picking the candidates; their job is to keep the party in running order between elections.

Waltman gives aid and advice to all the Republican hopefuls: men like Vandenberg, Taft, Dewey, Bridges. Michelson stands aloof alike from third-term-for-Roosevelt clubs and from clubs promoting Garner, McNutt, Clark and others for the presidency.

"The more of these clubs there are, the better we like it," Michelson says. "They build up interest in the party."

For the present, tweedy, tousehaired "Charlie" Michelson perhaps has the easier job. Whoever his candidate is, a party that has ruled the country for eight years necessarily must defend its record in the coming election.

Sees More Warnings.

As he sees the clash of interests:
"The Republicans on their part will continue to warn against their crowning peril of Roosevelt getting us into war, and will continue to bemoan what they call extravagance and inefficiency."

"I will continue to expound my bewilderment at the inability of the Republicans to make up their minds on anything, and at their knack for leaving all problems unsettled."

The job of stout, black-moustached "Frank" Waltman is weaving together the strands of Republican opinion on what the country needs. In this, he has watched the votes of Republican congressmen for guidance. And Waltman believes that a constructive policy for the country can be found in those votes.

He contends, for instance, that social security reforms long advocated by Senator Vandenberg and other Republican leaders finally were accepted by the administration.

"We have two objectives," he declares. "First, to point out all the shortcomings of the New Deal
—all its faults, all its fallacies; and second, to build up the constructive program of the Republican party."

Waltman complains that New Deal propagandists have "built up the idea that the mechanics of civilization commenced to move in this country on March 4, 1933."
He says his data proves this untrue.

Michelson blandly declares he'll fight it out "on the record of the Roosevelt administration."

These two seldom miss a bet for selling a good party idea to the country. Their unending campaigns are almost identical.

Their mimeograph machines turn out statements to the Washington correspondents on public affairs. When the opposition pops out the publicist gets one of the men on his side to answer immediately.

They help statesmen write speeches, and see that all the papers get copies. They arrange radio time. They put out "clip sheets" for the rural press.

Both furnish articles for party organs like the "Young Republican" and the "Democratic Digest." Both provide study material for women's clubs. Waltman puts out a special news letter for colored newspapers.

"Both of them write columns," which are quoted in the press.
For years, Michelson has been raising the administration and damning the Republicans in a weekly blast called "Dispelling
The Fog."

Waltman answers him in "Looking Forward." "Strangely enough, Franklin D. Roosevelt, a Democrat, wrote a book by the same name in 1933."

Once in a while, they boot at each other in their weekly columns, but they don't carry their differences into personal relations.
Both of them got into the tubthumping business through Washington newspaper work.

URNS TABLES ON SCOUTS; HE DOES THEM GOOD TURNS

(By Associated Press)

BARTLESVILLE, Okla.—Uncle
Frank Phillips was 66 last week and after 36 years of staying on top in the rough and ready oil business he is turning his time and money to the nation's youth.

Through the Frank Phillips Foundation, Inc., the wealthy chairman of the board of the company that bears his name is pumping funds into the Boy Scout movement.

He sat in his bedroom of Woolaroc lodge near here. Before him high on the wall were paintings of his father and mother.

"Civilization is breaking down," he said earnestly. "We don't set the standards of the old times.
Look at my father and mother up there. We couldn't do what they did."

"We must rebuild character into our youth if civilization survives.

"Hell, money's no good unless you have stability and character with it."

Phillips, known as Uncle Frank to hundreds of youngsters, said the foundation now was concentrating on the Boy Scout movement. The foundation is limited only to philanthropy through organized agencies, however, he added.

"An idle boy is a sad thing," he said. "It might lead to bad associations. The Boy Scouts give fine leadership to boys when they need it."

"Our work is with organization of new units. We give money to get the Boy Scouts started, but from then on the communities must take up the work so we can move on to new fields."

"We have a staff of about 25 at the foundation and about $30,000 to $50,000 a month is being used to widen the Boy Scout movement."

He has made provision for continuance of the foundation after his death. Trust funds already have been set up for members of his family and his present intention is to will about half of his fortune to the foundation.

BOWLING SCORES

FEMININE KEGLERS more than held their own in league competition at the Meder Recreation alleys last night. Only one score in the Mixed Doubles league was better than the 543 total registered by Margaret Baker. That was Harold Lemunyon's 577.

Mary McMullen came through with a 541, Hazel Hilborn hit 526, Sophia Meder rolled a 534 and F. Handwork accounted for a 525. Mrs. Hilborn and her partner, George Percy, came through with a 1028 series.

The best individual count last night was hung up by Jimmy Weems of the Curing No. 2 team, Mansfield Tire league, who hit the uplights for a 616 count, which included games of 208, 206 and 208.

McDermid of the New Business club, Ohio Public Service league, registered a 611.

Winning All-America Mention Is a Tough 'n' Full-Time Task

A BACK has to excel in almost every phase of modern football to win the All-American back's mention. The Gary, Indiana, bombshell—he's six feet tall and weighs 195 pounds—was the Big Ten's greatest running sensation since Red Grange. He could also pass, receive passes, kick, block, and tackle. Tom makes good grades for a young man as busy as he was this season. He scored 102 points himself, set up a flock of other touchdowns and passed for several more. His biggest days were against Iowa (when he scored all of Michigan's 27 points), Pennsylvania (when he made two touchdowns and passed for another), and Ohio State (when he scored one six-pointer, set up another on a brilliant run, passed for a third, and kicked all three extra points). Tom found little time to enjoy popularity enhanced by his gridiron feats, but was seen often with co-ed Margot Thom. Here's an All-American back's fall activities.

Harmon found time to have a "best girl."

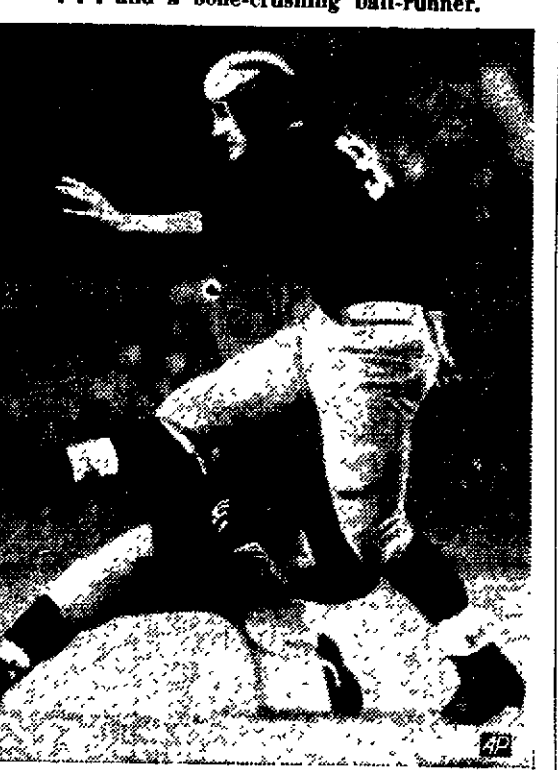

Versatile Tom was a good defensive man...

Practice made him an ace pass catcher...

Lack of Cash Benches Lynch

Bucks' Captain to Miss Opener Tomorrow.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—This talk of "subsidization" of college athletics leaves Capt. Ben Lynch of the Ohio State basketball team rather cold.

The hard-plunging Buckeye court guard will miss the opening games of his team's schedule while he hustles around to earn enough cash to re-enter the university for the winter term next month.

The defending Big Ten champions make their debut tomorrow night against Wabash college without Lynch and without Bill Sattler, elongated veteran, slated for the regular center position. Sattler is scholastically ineligible until next month.

Branch Rickey's Father Dies in Portsmouth

PORTSMOUTH—(U.P.)—J. Frank Rickey, 84, father of Branch Rickey, vice-president and general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals Baseball club, died at his home here late yesterday of an abdominal ailment. He had been ill two days.

Rickey served as Republican commissioner of Scioto county for two terms. He was a farmer and was active in church work and in the interest of prohibition. His wife died three years ago.

Ashland College Bows to Bowling Green, 47-37.

(By Associated Press)

Ohio collegiate basketball fans are going to keep a sharp eye on the Bobcats of Ohio University this season.

Playing its first game, the Athens squad last night swamped Marietta, 71 to 22, in the top contest of a seven-game state card. Frankie Baumholtz, Bobcat forward, played only 10 minutes but tallied 17 points. The Green and White led at the half, 34 to 10.

BELLEVUE HIGH QUINT ROUTS BUCYRUS, 40-27.

BELLEVUE—Bellevue high cagers registered their third straight victory here last night when they defeated Bucyrus, 40 to 27. Bill Clain and Harold Foos accounted for 28 of the winners' 40 points, the former scoring 16.

Bellevue (40): G. F. McCall, rf. 17; H. Foos, lf. 11; B. Clain, rf. 10; G. Bauer, lf. 10. Bucyrus (27): G. F. McCall, rf. 10; H. Foos, lf. 10; B. Clain, rf. 10; G. Bauer, lf. 10.

DON'T SCRATCH, SOOTHE THE IRRITATION

Quick relief from the maddening itch of eczema, psoriasis, poison ivy, and irritation about the rectum or personal parts is obtained by applying Resinol Ointment. Leave it on over night. It lessens the desire to scratch, and eases the irritation.

The soothing effect of Resinol takes the sting from the irritated places and makes you more comfortable. The skin heals sooner, too, with the help of Resinol, as its oily base holds the medication in active contact with the tortured parts.

For gentle cleansing of irritated skin, Resinol Soap is excellent because it has no excess of free alkali and is so refreshing. Many nurses suggest and use Resinol Ointment and Soap—why don't you try them? Buy at any drug store. For free sample, write to Resinol, Dept. 85, Baltimore, Md.

Dr. Kildare at Ohio. Said to be the best of the Kildare series, "The Secret of Dr. Kildare" opens at the Ohio today with Lew Ayers and Lionel Barrymore in their original roles. This time the young doctor has his hands full, with what an heiress who has a mental complex and the old doctor refusing to take a rest when his life depends on it. Dr. Kildare works out his problems although he has to quarrel with his mentor to do it. Helen Gilbert, the beautiful blond who played Mickey Rooney's teacher in "Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever," is seen in the film.

Discovers Mr. Lincoln.

Although Abraham Lincoln has been fairly well established in the hearts of his countrymen for more than three-quarters of a century, the stage and the movies seem only to have discovered him in the past two years. Henry Ford plays the best loved of all American heroes in "Young Mr. Lincoln" which is being shown at the Ritzy today and tomorrow. The late Alice Brady heads the sup-

"Panama Lady." Lucille Ball is seen as a cafe entertainer in "Panama Lady," a Park theater attraction. Allan Lane plays McTeague, an American oil prospector, who rescues a girl when she is accused of murdering a man who had hounded her. Steffi Duna, Evelyn Brent and William Pawley are in the cast. Also shown is "Let 'Em Have It," with Richard Arlen, Virginia Bruce and Bruce Cabot.

Joan as Reporter. Joan Blondell, whose absences from the screen for motherhood seem only to enhance her popularity at the box office, and who is busy starring in pictures again, plays a girl reporter in "Off the Record" who wants to adopt a tough youngster who is considered a delinquent. Pat O'Brien plays her colleague and friend, The Majestic also offers "It's a Wonderful World" with Charlotte Colburn and James Stewart.

Stage Christmas Vesper Program At Ontario Sunday

Students of the Springfield township school at Ontario will present a Christmas vesper program at 3 p. m. Sunday in the school auditorium.

Joseph Pival, violinist, and Doris Ranck, mezzo soprano, will be guest soloist on the program which also will include selections by various school musical groups.

Pival will play "La Plus Que Lente" by Debussy, accompanied by Miss Thelma Rapp, the violin obligato to "The Song of the Angels," to be sung by the school's mixed glee club. Miss Ranck will sing two numbers, "The Christmas Song," by Adams and "Hallelujah Christ Is Born," by Schloff.

"Cradle Hymn to the Lord Jesus," and "Sing O Heavens" is to be sung by the 7th and 8th grade choruses. The girls' glee club will present "The Angels in the Night," "The Lullaby Cattle Shed," and "The First Christmas Morn," the boys' glee club "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks" and "The March of the Wise Men." The school orchestra will present an arrangement of Handel's "Messiah."

The audience will join in the singing of two well known Christmas hymns, "Silent Night" and "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing."

NLRB Helped Force 80,000 to Join CIO, Witness Says

LABOR LEADER SLAMS BOARD ON 5 ISSUES

Claims Unwilling Miners Were Compelled to Affiliate With Lewis Organization.

(By International News Service) WASHINGTON—Charges that the National Labor Relations Board helped the CIO's United Mine Workers headed by John L. Lewis to organize the coal industry so that the union collects dues from 80,000 "unwilling members" were made before a congressional investigating committee today.

The accusations were hurled by Joe Ozanic of Springfield, Ill., president of the A. F. of L.'s Progressive Mine Workers Union, long a rival to Lewis' group. Ozanic, called as the Smith committee resumed its probe into activities of the labor board, also alleged:

1. An "unholy triumvirate" composed of the NLRB, coal operators and the United Mine Workers, "broke the morale" of men who joined the Progressive group.

2. The United Mine Workers operated in some cases as a "company union" and by "coercion" with the labor board collected dues from 80,000 "unwilling members."

3. A representative of the NLRB in western Kentucky "was in reality an organizer" for Lewis' union and that the board agent told employers to sign contracts with the union "because the government wants it."

4. The operator of a coal mine in Kentucky was told by a labor board agent that "you might as well sign a contract with the United Mine Workers because the NLRB is going to force you to do it."

5. An acting regional NLRB director in West Virginia told members of the Ozanic union to shift allegiance to the UMW "if you want to keep your jobs."

Hits Delayed Petitions. Ozanic supported his testimony with a thick file of letters, telegrams and documents. He charged that repeatedly the board delayed for months petitions by his union for recognition or for elections among mine workers. Finally, he said, the board dismissed the petitions without comment.

"John Lewis saw to it that the Wagner act didn't apply to operators who signed with his union," Ozanic said.

"So this unholy triumvirate—the employer, the board, and the CIO—many cases broke the morale of our men."

"Eighty thousand miners today are paying dues to the UMW when they prefer to belong to the PMW."

Bride-Elect Honored At Pre-Nuptial Party

Miss Elinor Longsdorf, bride-elect of Harold J. Oswalt, was feted last night at the Susie Janis home with the first of a series of pre-nuptial events. Miss Sarah Alacca and Mrs. Nick Nagle, Jr., were the hostesses, and bridge and hearts were played by the guests.

Prizes were presented to the guest of honor, Miss Leona Young, Mrs. Raymond Banks and Mrs. William Baltzell. Luncheon was served at a long table decorated with blue and silver appointments. Miss Young, who will attend Miss Longsdorf, when she is married Christmas eve, will entertain to-night.

PLAY BRIDGE. Mrs. Olga Davis and her committee served luncheon yesterday to members of the Naomi circle White Shrine when the members met for bridge at the Grotto hall. Appropriate appointments were used, and after a short business meeting cards were played. Mrs. Charlotte Forsyth won the contract prize, and Mrs. Ella Nixon was awarded the auction gift. The next meeting will be Jan. 9 with Mrs. Rose Tamblin as hostess.

HEM TOWELS. Members of the Women's Auxiliary to the National Federation of Postoffice clerks, Local No. 903, met with Mrs. Henry Emmer, 173 South Franklin avenue, and hemmed towels for the General hospital. A social hour followed with the 12 present taking part in a contest which was won by Mrs. John C. Schneider. A gift exchange and luncheon followed, and Mrs. Harry W. Zellner, 530 West Fourth street, invited the group to her home, Jan. 9.

HAVE 9 TABLES. There were nine tables of bridge in play at the American Legion home yesterday afternoon when members of the Bridge club met. Contest winners were Mrs. P. C. Maxwell and Mrs. R. A. Huffman. The auction winners were Mrs. Chris Giesler and Mrs. Fred Schneider. Members brought holiday baskets yesterday. The next meeting will be Dec. 26 at the home of Mrs. R. W. Jones and Mrs. J. R. Shively serving as hostesses.

Parent-Teacher Meetings Feature Many Entertainments

A number of Parent-Teacher associations met last night for regular monthly meetings, including the West Fifth group which had a program presented entirely by the pupils at the school. The introduction was given by the sixth grade, followed by the singing of "Jolly Santa Claus" by the first grade. "Christmas Wishes" was sung by the second grade, and a recitation and song "Christmas Customs of Other Lands" was offered by the third grade.

The same grade also sang "The Toys Find Christmas." An exercise, "The First Christmas," was given by the sight saving class with Donald Hart at the piano. "Spelling" was the recitation given by Carl Hammond, fourth grade, and "Deck the Hall" was the fifth grade's song. "The Bored Reindeer" was given by Ann Schoenman. A duet, "Christmas Carol," was given by Marion David and Gerald Tropp, and "Mrs. Santa Claus" was the selection by Joan Freeland. In conclusion the sixth grade sang "Joy to the World" and "Upon a Lowly Manger," and Doris Jacobs gave a recitation.

The Mothersingers also gave several numbers, and refreshments were served.

A patriotic service opened the meeting of the Newman school with Mrs. Donald Weaver presiding last night. Community singing of Christmas carols directed by Miss Doris Mann followed, and then Mrs. Carl Kalstein gave the report of the state convention. A flag, presented by E. B. Hall, was given to the school by Mrs. Weaver.

Rev. H. L. Gilbert, guest speaker, told of his trip to Bethlehem, and Christmas customs as he had observed them in Europe, after which E. W. Kissel showed a film on scenes in the holy land. The sixth graders sang carols with Miss Mann directing.

The committee in charge included Mrs. Thelma Hodgson, Mrs. Lewis Fruciani, Mrs. Elizabeth Hammer, Mrs. Frank Faugl, Miss Mann, Mrs. Pete Halvax, Mrs. Kalstein and Mrs. Lewis Fingfeld.

Miss Hazel Zellner and Mrs. Martin Jacobs were appointed to buy Christmas presents for the patrol boys last night at the meeting of the Bushnell P. T. A. when 62 members were in attendance.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Bernard Hout, Mrs. Michael Pettege and Miss Willet Keiser.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Beech, Mrs. Marion Gerrell and Mrs. Roy McCarty were in charge of the evening's program and entertainment, and an amateur program was given. Those participating were Harold Amsbaugh, Jean Maurer, Richard Perez, Dorothy Broach, Joan Cleveland, Juanita Daniels, Beverly Woods, Ruth Wolf, Phyllis Thomas, Elouise Becker, Maryellen Hoopes and Gerald Hobart. The next meeting will be Jan. 9 with the teachers as hosts.

The home of Mrs. John Hriesik, Seventh avenue, was the scene of the meeting of the Meet-Em-All club Tuesday when 100 members were present. Prizes were won by Mrs. L. W. Shafer, Mrs. Christine Ewalt and Mrs. Charles Weisbauer. Luncheon was served and a Christmas exchange followed. The next meeting will be held Jan. 9 with Mrs. Oliver Vaughn, Sixth avenue.

Miss Marie Ellen Campbell, Lexington, entertained the Old Pal club with a Christmas party Tuesday night. Mrs. Steve Bogner and Mrs. Paul Bogner were the associate hostesses for the dinner bridge party. Mrs. Richard Armstrong and Miss Betty Green won prizes, and they will entertain Jan. 16 at the home of Mrs. Dwight Prosser on Constance court.

CIO SUPPORTS DEMAND FOR ASSEMBLY CALL

Labor Group Joins Big Cities in Drive to Force Bricker to Act on Relief.

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS—The Congress of Industrial organizations today joined officials of Ohio's large cities in efforts to force Gov. John W. Bricker to call a special session of the legislature to provide additional funds for poor relief.

Governor Bricker has refused to call the general assembly on grounds that municipalities failed to exhaust all means of obtaining money locally.

The CIO announced a plan to contact members of the legislature in a campaign to work up sentiment in favor of a special session early next year. The labor group also sought the support of the state's ministers in the movement.

Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland told a special senate committee on taxation yesterday that city's immediate relief problem had been solved but that another crisis would follow unless the legislature provided new means of raising funds for relief.

Mayor Burton suggested allocation of a half-cent of the 3 cents a gallon gasoline tax to finance municipal governments. Martin S. Dodd, Toledo law director, urged enactment of a consumers' tax on all public and private utilities.

Other proposals included adjusting sales tax allocations to give schools less and cities more revenue, lowering percentage requirement for voting special levies from 65 per cent to a bare majority, requiring the state to match local relief funds dollar for dollar without limitation and removing certain levies from the 10-mill tax limitation.

The restaurant man waited for some time and, becoming suspicious reported the matter to police. He said the money was practically all he had, and that a wife and four children are dependent on him.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said it was evidently the work of a professional confidence man. A description has been sent to other cities.

Also on the program are continued study of the city manager form of city government; a proposal to gain additional recreational facilities through the development of Mansfield's park system; continued campaigns for the improvement of the city's railway stations; removal of abandoned street car rails and a study of plans for by-passing through traffic through the business district as well as the relocation of U. S. routes 30 and 42, east of Mansfield.

Other activities are curtailment of soliciting and promotional schemes of doubtful value; to work for improved fire fighting equipment and promote fire prevention activities; continued work against "crackpot" legislation and efficiency and economy in city, state, and federal government; to bring more conventions to Mansfield and promote the sale of Mansfield-made products and to expand the Mansfield trading area.

KILLS WIFE, SELF

Jobless Coal Miner, Mate Had Quarrel, Neighbors Say.

LISBON, O.—(AP)—Joseph Polifrone, 56, an unemployed coal miner, shot and killed himself today after slaying his wife, Rose, 39, in the bedroom of their Lisbon home, according to Sheriff Harry L. Gosney.

Neighbors said the shooting followed a quarrel between the couple. They said Polifrone forced his wife and three children from their home Monday night.

RETURN RELIEF TO TOWNSHIPS, THOMAS URGES

Richland county's township trustees and clerks heard about relief and highway safety last night at their quarterly meeting at the courthouse.

J. R. Thomas of Hayesville, state president of the Township Trustees and Clerks association, urged the return of relief administration to the townships and predicted that county and township road money will run out unless the rural communities get more state funds.

Asserting that the "professional relief workers are the prize propagandists," Thomas said "they try to blacken the trustees in the public eye and make them out a bunch of ignoramuses, unable to handle the relief situation."

Cites Patrol Records. Quoting from the records of the Mansfield patrol district for last month, Governor said 24 of the 37 accidents investigated in the district were due to careless and reckless driving.

One of the accidents were fatal, while 19 resulted in injuries to one or more persons, and property damage was estimated at $9,280.

"The average driver who thinks he is without fault causes more accidents than speed maniacs, road hogs and drunken drivers, and the only way to remedy that is to admit your faults and do something to correct them," Governor said.

"If nothing else, the thought of how a motorist would feel if he killed some one through carelessness should make him drive carefully," he added.

Rotarians Told of Customs of South Sea Natives.

Through the Panama canal and over the Pacific ocean to the South Sea islands, members of the Mansfield Rotary club were taken at their Tuesday's meeting by Paul Tappan, member of the club, who told of his trip to a number of the southern Pacific islands and showed color motion pictures taken during the three and a half months of travel.

Strange habits and customs of native islanders, as well as a recap of some of the historic background of the island populations were included in the talk.

Next week's Rotary club meeting will be the annual Christmas party for crippled children, with a special program appropriate to the occasion. William C. Mead, chairman of the club's committee for crippled children's work, will be in charge of the meeting, which will be at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

$3,000 Raised To Date In Drive For Salvation Army

First reports on the Salvation Army's drive for $15,000 shows that $3,000 has been contributed to date, all in small gifts, campaign workers reported today. The larger contributions have not been turned in yet, the committee said.

The money is being sought to clear the indebtedness on the Salvation Army home at South Main and East Second street and to make some repairs to the building.

The mortgage against the home is approximately $12,000 and the interest in the indebtedness has seriously crippled the Army's work as it is being paid out of its operating fund, it was pointed out.

Headquarters for the drive have been set up at 601 Farmers Bank building. Carlton S. Fornyak and Francis O'Brien are vice chairmen of the drive and are in charge in the absence of Louis Bromfield, chairman.

NLRB Helped Force 80,000 to Join CIO, Witness Says

Claims Unwilling Miners Were Compelled to Affiliates With Lewis Organization.

(By International News Service) — Charges that agents of the National Labor Relations Board helped the CIO's United Mine Workers headed by John L. Lewis to organize the coal industry so that the union collects dues from 80,000 "unwilling members" were made before a congressional investigating committee today.

The accusations were hurled by Joe Ozanic of Springfield, Ill., president of the A. F. of L.'s Progressive mine workers union—long a rival to Lewis' group. Ozanic, called as the Smith committee resumed its probe into activities of the labor board, also alleged:

1. An "unholy triumvirate" composed of the NLRB, coal operators and the United Mine Workers Union, "broke the morale" of men who joined the Progressive group.

2. The United Mine Workers operated in some cases as a "company union" and by "coercion" with the labor board collected dues from 80,000 "unwilling members."

3. A representative of the NLRB in western Kentucky "was in reality an organizer" for Lewis union and that the board agent told employers to sign contracts with the union "because the government wants it."

4. The operator of a coal mine in Kentucky was told by a labor board agent that "you might as well sign a contract with the United Mine Workers because the NLRB is going to force you to do it."

5. An acting regional NLRB director in West Virginia told members of the Ozanic union to shift allegiance to the UMW "if you want to keep your jobs."

Hits Delayed Petitions.
Ozanic supported his testimony with a thick file of letters, telegrams and documents. He charged that repeatedly the board delayed for months petitions by his union for recognition or for elections among mine workers. Finally, he said, the board dismissed the petitions without comment.

"John Lewis saw to it that the Wagner act didn't apply to operators who signed with his union," Ozanic said.

"So this unholy triumvirate—the employer, the board, and the CIO—in many cases broke the morale of our men.

"Eighty thousand miners today are paying dues to the UMW when they prefer to belong to the PMW."

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Cases of eight former state employees seeking reinstatement to their jobs in the liquor department were called in common pleas court today. Judge Dana F. Reynolds took 31 similar cases under advisement yesterday.

Bride-Elect Honored

At Pre-Nuptial Party

Miss Elinor Longsdorf, bride-elect of Harold J. Oswald, was feted last night at the Susie Jarvis home with the first of a series of pre-nuptial events. Miss Sarah Alacca and Mrs. Nick Nagle, jr., were the hostesses, and bridge and hearts were played by the guests.

Prizes were presented to the guest of honor, Miss Leona Young, Mrs. Raymond Banks and Mrs. William Balzell. Luncheon was served at a long table decorated with blue and silver appointments. Miss Young, who will attend Miss Longsdorf, when she is married Christmas eve, will entertain tonight.

PLAY BRIDGE

Mrs. Olga Davis and her committee served luncheon yesterday to members of the Naomi circle. White shrimp when the members met for bridge at the Grotto hall. Appropriate appointments were used and after a short business meeting cards were played. Mrs. Charlotte Forth won the contract prize and Mrs. Ella Nixon was awarded the auction gift. The next meeting will be Jan. 9 with Mrs. Rose Tamblin as hostess.

HEN TOWELS

Members of the Women's Auxiliary to the National Federation of Postoffice clerks, Local No. 903, met with Mrs. Henry Emmer, 175 South Franklin avenue, and home-made towels for the General hospital. A social hour followed with the 12 present taking part in a contest which was won by Mrs. John C. Schneider. A gift exchange and luncheon followed. Mrs. Harry W. Zellner, 350 West Fourth street, invited the group to her home, Jan. 9.

HAVE 9 TABLES

There were nine tables of bridge in play at the American Legion home yesterday afternoon when members of the Bridge club met. Contrary to what Mrs. P. C. Wagoner and Mrs. R. A. Huffman thought, the women winners were Mrs. Chris Glick and Mrs. Fred Schmitzer. Members brought food to be packed in holiday welfare baskets yesterday. The next meeting will be Dec. 26 at the home of Mrs. R. W. Jones and Mrs. J. R. Shively serving as hostesses.

BANDIT SHOT

Would-Be Robber Wounded By Man He Attempted To Hold Up.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A would-be bandit tentatively identified as Frank Pierce, 59, was in serious condition in a Columbus hospital today, suffering from a bullet wound in the abdomen.

The bandit was shot by Charles E. Hunter, proprietor of a south side market who whipped out a gun and shot Pierce when he demanded the storekeeper hand over his money.

Parent-Teacher Meetings Feature Many Entertainments

A number of Parent-Teacher associations met last night for regular monthly meetings, including the West Fifth group which had a program presented entirely by the pupils at the school. The introduction was given by the sixth grade, followed by the singing of "Jolly Santa Claus" by the first grade. "Christmas Wishes" was sung by the second grade, and a recitation and song "Christmas Customs of Other Lands" was offered by the third grade.

The same grade also sang "The Toys Find Christmas." An exercise, "The First Christmas," was given by the sight saving class with Donald Hart at the piano. "Spelling" was the recitation given by Carl Hammond, fourth grade, and "Deck the Hall" was the fifth grade's song.

"The Bored Reindeer" was given by Ann Schoenman. A duet, "Christmas Carol," was given by Marion David and Gerald Trott, and "Mrs. Santa Claus" was the selection by Joan Freeland. In conclusion the sixth grade sang "Joy to the World" and "Upon a Lowly Manger," and Doris Jacobs gave a recitation.

The Mothersingers also gave several numbers, and refreshments were served.

A patriotic service opened the meeting of the Newman school with Mrs. Donald Weaver presiding last night. Community singing of Christmas carols directed by Miss Doris Mann followed, and then Mrs. Carl Kalstein gave the report of the state convention. A flag, presented by E. B. Hall, was given to the school by Mrs. Weaver.

Rev. H. L. Gilbert, guest speaker, told of his trip to Bethlehem, and Christmas customs as he had observed them in Europe, after which E. W. Kissel showed a film on scenes in the holy land. The sixth graders sang carols with Miss Mann directing.

The committee in charge included Mrs. Helma Hodgson, Mrs. Lewis Fruciani, Mrs. Elizabeth Hammer, Mrs. Frank Faugl, Miss Mann, Mrs. Pete Halvax, Mrs. Kalstein and Mrs. Lewis Fingfeld.

Miss Hazel Zellner and Mrs. Martin Jacobs were appointed to buy Christmas presents for the patrol boys last night at the meeting of the Bushnell P. T. A. when 62 members were in attendance. Door prizes were won by Mrs. Bernard Gout, Mrs. Michael Perrigo and Miss Willet Keiser.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Beech, Mrs. Marion Gerrell and Mrs. Roy McGarney were in charge of the evening's program and entertainment, and an amateur program was given. Those participating were Harold Amshbaugh, Jean Maurer, Richard Perez, Dorothy Broach, Joan Cleveland, Juanita Daniels, Beverly Woods, Ruth Wolf, Phyllis Thomas, Elouise Becker, Maryellen Hoopes and Gerald Hobart. The next meeting will be Jan. 9 with the teachers as hosts.

CIO SUPPORTS DEMAND FOR ASSEMBLY CALL

Labor Group Joins Big Cities in Drive to Force Bricker to Act on Relief.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — The Congress of Industrial organizations today joined officials of Ohio's large cities in efforts to force Gov. John W. Bricker to call a special session of the legislature to provide additional funds for poor relief.

Governor Bricker has refused to call the general assembly on grounds that municipalities failed to exhaust all means of obtaining money locally.

The CIO announced a plan to contact members of the legislature in a campaign to work up sentiment in favor of a special session early next year. The labor group also sought the support of the state's ministers in the movement.

Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland told a special senate committee on taxation yesterday that city's immediate relief problem had been solved but that another crisis would follow unless the legislature provided new means of raising funds for relief.

Mayor Burton suggested allocation of a half-cent of the 3 cents a gallon gasoline tax to finance municipal governments. Martin S. Dodd, Toledo law director, urged enactment of a consumers' tax on all public and private utilities.

Other proposals included adjusting sales tax allocations to give schools less and cities more revenue, lowering percentage requirement for voting special levies from 65 per cent to a bare majority, requiring the state to match local relief funds dollar for dollar without limitation and removing certain levies from the 10-mill tax limitation.

The group presented Mrs. C. M. Oliver, the teacher with a gift. A Bible contest was played during the afternoon, and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Boyce and Mrs. Oliver. The place of the next meeting, Jan. 9, will be announced later.

stranger at a local bank early yesterday afternoon and the money was taken out of the bank and handed over to the man. He asked his victim to wait until he could get his car which was "parked just around the corner." He said they would leave immediately for Bucyrus.

The restaurant man waited for some time and, becoming suspicious reported the matter to police. He said the money was practically all he had, and that a wife and four children are dependent on him.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said it was evidently the work of a professional confidence man. A description has been sent to other cities.

existing industries and to serve them in every way possible and to encourage new industry to Mansfield; for the continued study and efforts towards the rehabilitation of the municipal water and sewer systems, and for efforts towards a solution to the traffic problem in downtown Mansfield.

Also on the program are continued study of the city manager form of city government; a proposal to gain additional recreational facilities through the development of Mansfield's park system; continued campaigns for the improvement of the city's railway stations; removal of abandoned street car rails and a study of plans for by-passing through traffic through the business district as well as the relocation of U. S. routes 30 and 42, east of Mansfield.

Other activities are curtailment of soliciting and promotional schemes of doubtful value; to work for improved fire fighting equipment and promote fire prevention activities; continued work against "crackpot" legislation and efficiency and economy in city, state, and federal government; to bring more conventions to Mansfield and promote the sale of Mansfield-made products and to expand the Mansfield trading area.

RETURN RELIEF TO TOWNSHIPS, THOMAS URGES

Richland county's township trustees and clerks heard about relief and highway safety last night at their quarterly meeting at the courthouse.

J. R. Thomas of Hayesville, state president of the Township Trustees and Clerks association, urged the return of relief administration to the townships and predicted that county and township road money will run out unless the rural communities get more state funds.

Asserting that the "professional relief workers are the prize propagandists," Thomas said "they try to blacken the trustees in the public eye and make them out a bunch of ignoramuses, unable to handle the relief situation."

Speaking on "Highway Safety," State Patrolman R. I. Governor formerly of Mansfield and now at Massillon, said "automobiles, tires and roads have vastly improved in the past 20 years, but drivers have remained the same."

Cites Patrol Records.

Quoting from the records of the Mansfield patrol district for last month, Governor said 24 of the 37 accidents investigated in the district were due to careless and reckless driving.

One of the accidents was fatal, while 19 resulted in injuries to one or more persons, and property damage was estimated at $9,280.

"The average driver who thinks he is without fault causes more accidents than speed maniacs, road hogs and drunken drivers, and the only way to remedy that is to admit your faults and do something to correct them," Governor said.

"If nothing else, the thought of how a motorist would feel if he killed some one through carelessness should make him drive carefully," he added.

Rotarians Told of Customs of South Sea Natives.

Through the Panama Canal and over the Pacific ocean to the South Sea islands, members of the Mansfield Rotary club were taken at their Tuesday's meeting by Paul Tappan, member of the club, who told of his trip to a number of the southern Pacific islands and showed color motion pictures taken during the three and a half months of travel.

Strange habits and customs of native islanders, as well as a recital of some of the historic background of the island populations were included in the talk.

Next week's Rotary club meeting will be the annual Christmas party for crippled children, with a special program appropriate to the occasion. William C. Mead, chairman of the club's committee for crippled children's work, will be in charge of the meeting, which will be at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

$3,000 Raised To Date In Drive For Salvation Army

First reports on the Salvation Army's drive for $15,000 shows that $3,000 has been contributed to date, all in small gifts, campaign workers reported today. The larger contributions have not been turned in yet, the committee said.

The money is being sought to clear the indebtedness on the Salvation Army home at South Main and East Second street and to make some repairs to the building.

The mortgage against the home is approximately $12,000 and the interest in the indebtedness has seriously crippled the Army's work as it is being paid out of its operating fund, it was pointed out.

Headquarters for the drive have been set up at 601 Farmers Bank building. Carlton S. Feenyak and Francis O'Brien are vice chairmen of the drive and are in charge in the absence of Louis Bromfield, chairman.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1939.

Too late to shop early—but you can still shop EARLY IN THE MORNING.

Word comes that Californians object to reference to "the thirteen original states"—claiming theirs is more original than any of the others.

The complaint is sometimes heard that there's no "true democracy" anywhere in the world—but that's no excuse for wrecking the substantial foundations.

Kiwanians Aid Friendly House

CONTRIBUTION of $500 by the Mansfield Kiwanis club to further the work being done by Friendly House, presents another example—if one is needed—of the excellent service that can be performed by small civic groups which direct their efforts along specific lines of service, rather than attempting to meet all community requirements for charitable and philanthropic activity.

While it has been the habit of individual Kiwanians to share in the support of all worthy community projects, the club has, for a number of years, kept in close touch with the needs of Friendly House and has taken the initiative in supplying various of these needs, insofar as possible, and also in increasing public interest in the fine work being done at the settlement house among children and adults whom it serves in many practical ways.

It is at this season of the year, when thoughts of giving come most readily, that other individuals, club groups and fraternal organizations, may be inspired to scan the local field with a view to choosing some particular activity and making either a small or large contribution thereto. If such giving is intelligently done it can be made to spread benefits undreamed of by the donors—and will probably bring a feeling of satisfaction that cannot be gained by storing away unnecessarily large surpluses of money.

The One Thing Lacking

AN INKLING of why business improvement is not being reflected more rapidly in a freer flow of money is seen in the remarks of a national business editor during a recent talk. "Industry is doing 24-hour shifts," he said, "but no one asks for a nickel of new money. This is unprecedented. All that is now being done is the exchanging of high-interest debt for low-interest debt."

This statement, as the speaker would probably admit, is not 100 per cent true, but it gives a fair picture of the general situation. Even now when American industry and business are making good money, there is very little new investment. Mostly the people making the money just pile it up in the bank, or spend it.

There has to be new investment, and a lot of it, to bring a new and sound era of prosperity. Money has to go into homes, factories, mills, railroads, airplanes, etc., instead of being buried in banks that don't want it, or in government bonds that shouldn't be necessary.

Doug Fairbanks, the Elder

TO THE YOUNGER generation of movie-goers the name of Douglas Fairbanks is likely to be associated with Doug. jr., instead of with his more eminent father, for screen personalities come and go quickly these days and it is a long time since 1932 when Doug, sr., made his last picture.

But to those whose memory carries back to 1914 and the next dozen years, the Doug Fairbanks who died yesterday at the age of 55, continues as the outstanding recollection of that period of silent pictures when "action" was the keynote of success.

And it was in action roles that Doug shone so brightly as to put him at the head of the list of male stars of his time—a place he held for at least a decade. A re-showing of some one of the popular Doug Fairbanks pictures, possibly Robin Hood, or The Mark of Zoro, would have educational value in its contrast with present-day productions, and might also make a considerable box office appeal.

Nonessential Public Jobs

MOVING from horse-and-buggy days has been easier mechanically than politically, according to the Boston Herald, which comments plaintively: "The sheriff in a modern metropolitan community like Boston is an anachronism. We need a sheriff in Suffolk county no more than we need a town crier, a keeper of the town pound, or any other outworn relic of colonial times."

But try to get rid of some such unnecessary public offices or outmoded political subdivisions and notice the howl that goes up from office holders.

Solution of the problem of how to avoid the present tremendous waste of taxpayers' money seems likely to pass to a future generation in which public offices will be restricted to required service rather than being established and maintained merely to make jobs.

Walking Away Is Not Escape

WHILE some tolerance may be felt for a prison inmate who escapes from inside the wall, "escaping" from outside the prison is not easily excused.

The very fact that some reformatory inmates are permitted freedom of the farm indicates that they have been deemed worthy of confidence, and "walking away" under such circumstances not only reflects on the culprits themselves but makes it tougher for their associates in the institution.

Almost invariably, escapees are either quickly recaptured or return later of their own accord. The mere fact that additional time must be served as a penalty for attempting to escape might well be expected to cause inmates to think twice before indulging in this folly.

Record Year for Public Parks

NEARLY four million persons, it is reported, have visited Illinois state parks up to Nov. 1 of this year. By the end of December, the director of the department of public works believes, the total will be at least one million larger than last year's.

Visitors came from all sections of Illinois and from many other states. A fine state park, wherever it is located, attracts tourists from afar as well as local residents. Illinois, like Ohio, has been steadily developing facilities for the pleasure, comfort and convenience of all who come to its parks.

The same thing seems to be true throughout the country, of national parks and state parks alike.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Most orchestras who play in hotels have an hour's recess every night between nine and ten o'clock. This is the stretching hour between the dinner and the supper crowds. At the Commodore the other night Sammy Kaye and his boys finished up the dinner turn and then fled into a card room, where bridge is played among themselves every night.

At the game was also Jimmy Peppe, Kaye's manager. The game got under way hurriedly, and after a while, a strange look came over Sammy's face. He kept looking at his hand and folding it up and opening it again. Nobody said anything for a long time. Then one of the boys said, "We don't want to rush you, Sammy, but you've been pondering over that hand for ten minutes, and we'll have to go back on that stand in a few moments."

"Well," said Sammy. "I guess I'll bid two clubs." This being a demand bid, his partner replied, and Kaye then said he would try seven no trump.

He thereupon laid down a perfect hand—one of those rare phenomena of bridge. Professionals sometimes go a lifetime without drawing such a hand. Kaye's beautiful mitt went like this: Ace of spades; A. K. Q. of hearts; A. K. Q. diamonds; and A. K. Q. J. 10. 9. of clubs.

Since then, however, his luck has run out on him. He hasn't drawn a single bidable major suit this week.

IN ONE of the radio offices recently Elsie Hitz, the actress, was talking with a girl who writes those commercial advertisements which are spotted throughout the various programs you hear. She was in high good humor. "Look," she cried. "I got this for writing an essay against the cruel use of steel traps to snare wild animals." It was a check for a thousand dollars.

"My goodness," exclaimed Miss Hitz. "What in the world are you going to do with it?"

"I think," said she, "I'll go right out and buy myself a mink coat."

WITH so many British ships around town is this: "Have you heard the latest about King George?"

"No, what?"

"He's bought himself a diving suit, so he can review the British fleet."

Wishing to repeat "Stop Kicking My Heart Around," which he wrote, on his Celebrity program, George Jessel called his publishers and said, "How about it?"

But the girl who took his call didn't recognize Jessel's voice, and she replied, "It'll be all right with us if you use that song, but you'll have to have permission from Mr. Jessel, too. It's his song, you know."

Then she added, "But I'm sure you won't have any trouble. He's glad to get anybody to sing it."

"Ain't it odd that two writing geniuses like you and me should be teamed up together?" remarked Jimmy Durante to Robert Benchley. "Why, Jimmy? I didn't know you were an author. What are some of your books?"

"Not book, bookies," said Jimmy. "and I underwrite 'em, not write 'em."

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Dec. 13, 1919.

North Main street power plant of Richland Public Service company was destroyed by fire, with loss estimated at $100,000.

Annual meeting of Mansfield council, United Commercial Travelers, was held at Masonic temple.

First games in Y. M. C. A. grade school basketball league were played in association gymnasium.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Bloor entertained with family dinner on occasion of Mrs. Jane E. Bloor's eighty-eighth birthday anniversary.

Miss Anne Fetter and Edward P. Cusic were married by Rev. F. A. Schreiber.

Mansfield grocers were offering 70 cents a dozen for fresh eggs—highest price in their recollection.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Dec. 18, 1934.

C. A. Hines was elected president of Westbrook Country club, succeeding W. J. Spreng.

C. R. Crum, of Shelby, was named farm census supervisor for Fifth Ohio census district, including Richland county.

Carl Gibson was named permanent chairman of a Better Housing campaign for Mansfield.

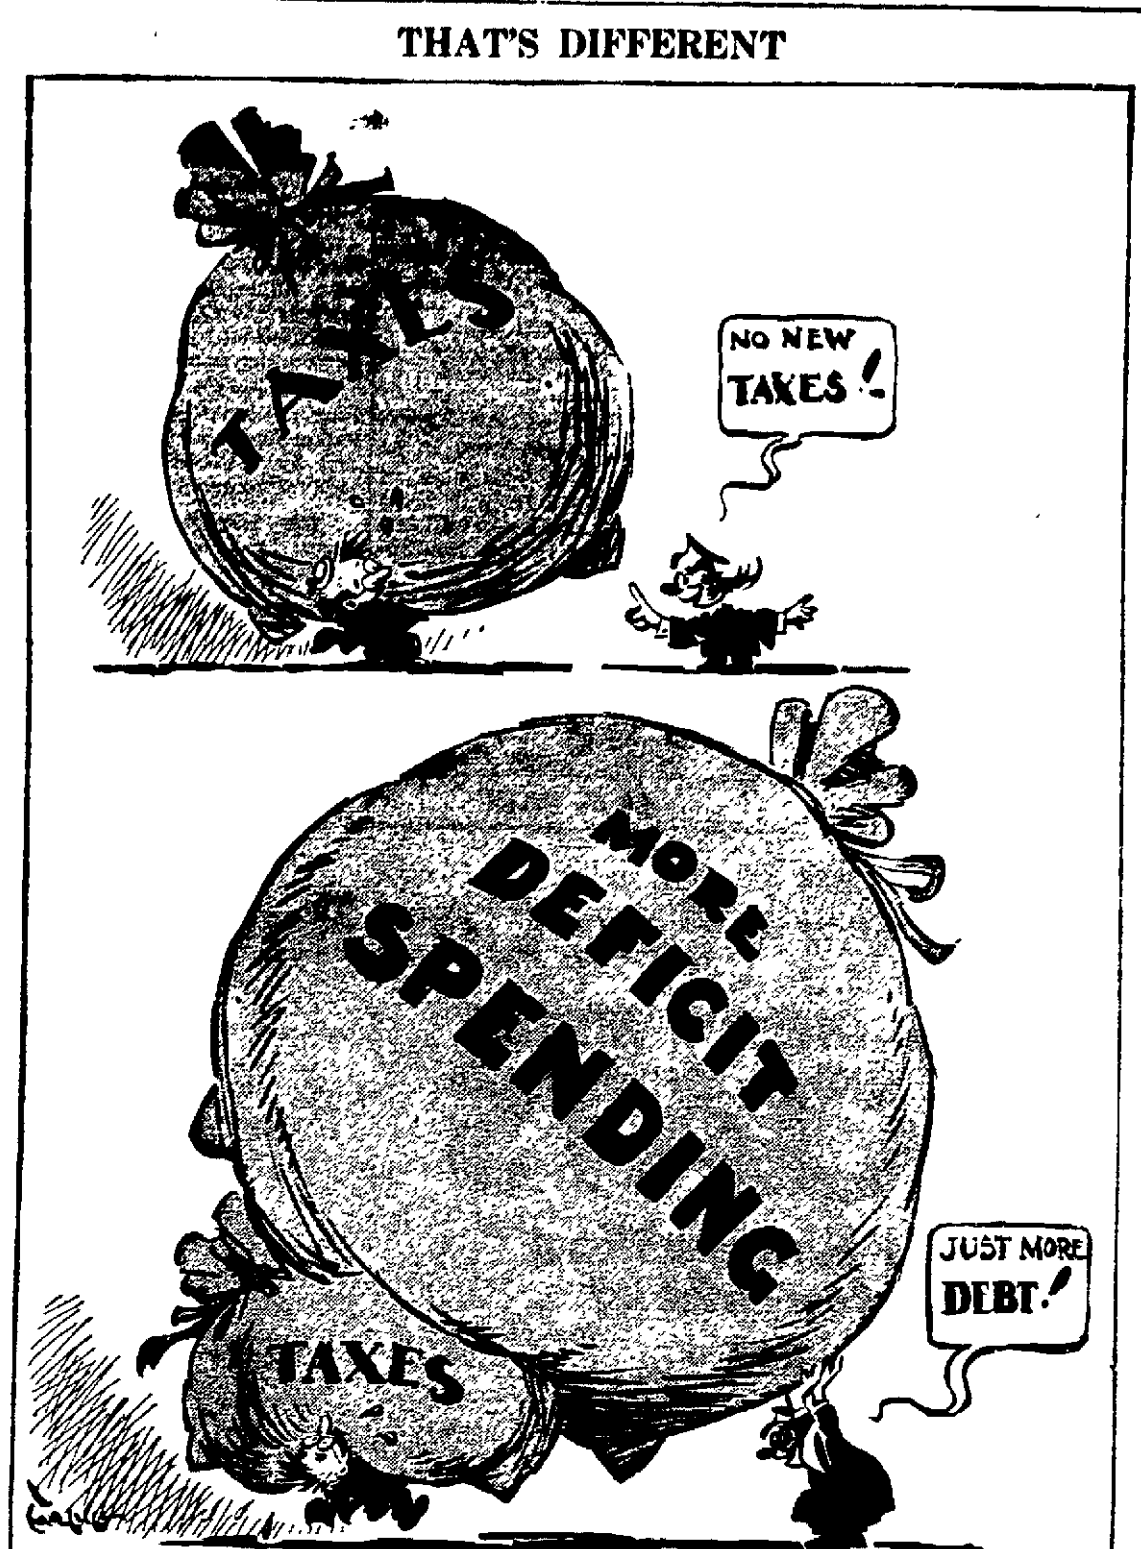

Mrs. Carl Reissner, 27, formerly Madonna Madden of Mansfield, drowned in the bathtub at her home in Cleveland when she received shock from short-circuited sun lamp.

Clyde Herrod, 30, died at General hospital of pneumonia.

Marshall C. Moore resigned position with the Federal Land Bank of Kentucky to resume law practice here.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On December 13, 1862, the Battle of Fredericksburg was fought. The Union forces were turned back with a heavy loss in men and supplies.

Denies Value of War To Business

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

PRESIDENT R. E. Desvernine of the Crucible Steel Company of America very thoroughly rubbed in the idea the other day that this country's commerce and industry emphatically are anti-war. Of course, they especially are against Uncle Sam's participation in any conflict, but secondarily object to hostilities anywhere on earth, because they've discovered that, in the long run, warfare is disastrous even to interests which make big profits out of it temporarily, such a slump always follows as to wipe all their profits out, and maybe more, too.

The steel magnate made his remarks at a Washington, D. C. gathering at the capital's Society of Engineers.

He agreed that perhaps there were business men who, in 1914 looked on the outbreak of that world struggle rather complacently as an opportunity to scoop in big money by sales to belligerents—not realizing then that the United States presently would be a belligerent also. But they learned their lesson by what followed that fight, he added, and now they are not only praying that we may stay out of the current commotion but they wish that foreign nations would end their bellicose activities likewise as speedily as possible.

Challenges Statements.

"Too many of us," Desvernine observed, "refrain from challenging such typical statements as those of the Nazi foreign office that 'groups of American profiteers want to reap huge gains with the blood and ruin of others and the assertion by Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov that 'the American bourgeoisie is interested in intensifying the war so that its uncrowned munitions kings can fatten their coffers enormously.'"

"I wouldn't," continued the steel president, "dignify these absurd utterances with a refutation but for the regrettable fact that so many well-intentioned people are cajoled into believing them."

Furthermore, there are vote-gathering politicians, self-aggrandizing demagogues and star-gazing theorists who keep shouting these phrases until they almost have become popular slogans and have gained considerable credence from the force of mere uncontradicted repetition.

Gun Makers Lose, Too.

"Why, I can testify from my own business experience that war is unprofitable even to munition makers."

"Even assuming for the sake of argument that vast profits were realized currently out of the last war what permanent benefit remains to the so-called profiteers?" The inevitable rejoinders that ensued liquidated them and today, as a result of conditions unescapably caused by the war and the political and economic disturbances which arose from them, can it be denied that business is worse off than before the first World War began?

"The effects of that war were felt for 20 years. The effects of the new war will be felt at least through the 1940's. It is last long the cumulative effects of the two wars will continue beyond the turn of the century."

That, if a good guess, would mean another 60 years of economic depression. Nobody old enough to be in business now would live through it. President Desvernine claims that the average business man is far from dense enough to welcome a prospect of that sort for the sake of an ephemeral boom.

As to Government?

The industrialist called attention also to war's effect on government.

"The last war," he said, "and especially the conditions resulting from it, gave us a terrific impulse toward both economic and political totalitarianism."

"If participation in another war would have the same consequences as we experienced from the last and from which we have not yet extricated ourselves, we would find ourselves living afterward in a new world in which democracy and free enterprise could find no place."

"Is it conceivable that any American industrialist would want to risk this possibility for the sake of problematic and illusory profits?"

"Drastic powers already possessed by the president for use in emergencies, together with broader powers proposed, furnish a disquieting and perplexing element even while the country remains neutral."

That last sentence contains the nub of President Desvernine's objection to any war at all, whether or not Uncle Sam's a participant.

Health and Diet

Ways of Winning Tuberculosis War.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

GENUSES are particularly liable to have tuberculosis. Perhaps their genius is due more to the product of the bacillus than to innate ability. The fact of their susceptibility, however, has allowed us to obtain historical records which show quite clearly the way in which tuberculosis was treated in other days.

John Keats died about 120 years ago. He was a medical student and was licensed to practice medicine. He should have known the early symptoms and been able to make his own diagnosis. His mother died when he was 15 years old, and while we have very meager records of her, it is safe to assume that so early a death meant tuberculosis and that she was the source of his infection.

His health began to break down in 1816. He sought relief in various climates but, instead of resting, he thought that walking and strenuous exercise would restore his health. This, of course, is entirely contrary to our modern practice, in which rest is the first element in treatment.

His younger brother developed consumption and John Keats nursed him for a while, a most unwholesome thing for him to have done. Apparently neither he nor anyone else recognized the similarity of his own symptoms and those of his brother.

Friend Told Story.

His friend, Charles Brown, told the story that one night Keats came to his house in a pitiable state, resembling violent intoxication. He had caught a chill riding outside a stage coach. Brown put him to bed. As he got between the cold sheets he coughed and then said: "Bring me a candle. I must see that blood." He gazed for some moments at the stain and said, "I know the color—it is arterial blood. I must die." But even with that symptom a doctor reassured him and old him there was nothing the matter.

In 1818 he went on a walking tour in Scotland. The fatigue and hardships proved too great a strain for him. Here, for the first time, every detail of the management of his case would be different. In the first place, the diagnosis would be made early. Treatment begun in an early stage is far more hopeful than late treatment. Secondly, he would be put to bed and not allowed to associate with other tuberculosis patients, unless, at least, every precaution were taken to prevent cross infection. It is probable that his lung would have been collapsed and the tuberculin toxin squeezed out of it. Perhaps in that case we would never have had the "Ode to a Grecian Urn."

With the application of modern forms of treatment, we feel that the conquest of tuberculosis is quite possible.

The money which is obtained from the Christmas seals of the National Tuberculosis Association is used on furthering this conquest.

Matched Team

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I've farmed for 40 years," my neighbor said, "and if I was to be all up to grade. We threshed at keep a good team of horses. I high, wide and handsome and Lem took the lines to drive it in. I Lem was that proud of them. I proud ain't the word: Lem the whole thing serious, and I do believe we'd had to bury him if them horses'd stuck again. But they didn't. They nigh laid down to do it, but they pulled 'er. Their weighed a ton and the other nigh belies was on the ground comin' as a picture, roan with white manes and tails. We hauled hay with 'em on that hilly field one day, and got them stuck. Lem was burned up about it. That hill is steep and shaly. We had a jag of hay on and when the team would start to pull their feet would slip and they were done. Lem could hardly stand it.

"A week after that we threshed at my place and Lem was there. We razzed him a lot about his horses getting stalled.

"All right," he said, "We'll load on what until you boys are tired and then we'll show you what the team can do."

"We went alone down to my bottom field. It's fairly smooth and

WASHINGTON

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Navy sleuths have been gum-shoeing around to find where the leaks have been coming from regarding defects in the brand new U. S. destroyers.

Naval officers do not deny that the defects exist, but are hot under the collar that the facts leaked out.

Meanwhile, some of the civilians who work on naval design in the navy department, think the Annapolis men might well check upon the small amount of money spent by the navy on research. At present, the navy is spending a huge amount on construction, but relatively little on laboratories to test out and improve that construction.

In fact, civilian naval engineers are paid so little that there is constant temptation to accept higher pay from the private shipyards. The private yards spend all kinds of money on research for new design, while the navy spends all kinds of money on building ships on insufficiently proved design—which, of course, may turn out to be a terrific waste.

Inside fact is that most naval research today is after mistakes are made, rather than before. For instance, the navy's civilian research experts will be sent a defective engine, built in a hurry. And they will be told to ascertain why it became defective.

In other words, instead of using research in advance to avoid mistakes, the navy does its building first, and then leaves it to the research men to pick up the pieces.

And when the civilian research men do succeed in correcting the faults in an already built engine, about all they get from the admirals is a letter of congratulation.

Crack-Down.

ASSISTANT Attorney General Thurman Arnold is playing no favorites in his anti-trust crack-down on labor leaders. Nothing is being said about it, but certain CIO chiefs are under grand jury investigation and headed for indictments.

The AFL has been yelling bloody murder since Arnold indicted some of their moguls in his clean-up of the building industry, while heavy undercover pressure has been brought on the president and Attorney General Murphy to call off Arnold. But these efforts have been unavailing. Arnold not only is proceeding against other AFLers but is moving in on the CIO.

Dies Doings.

ONLY non-American committee members knew it, but heroic Chairman Dies was sulking at his home while Mrs. Roosevelt attended the Youth Congress investigation. Dies staged this run-out just 24 hours after his Madison Square Garden speech, in which he demanded that the Roosevelt administration declare its stand on the committee. After Mrs. Roosevelt had declared her stand, Dies slid off to Texas.

Other members of the committee had no idea of Dies' plan to examine Trotsky and Mexican painter Diego Rivera until he broke into the headlines with it—without committee approval. Jerry Voorhis is now holding the bag regarding William Pelley, head of the Silver Shirts. Dies made him head of a special subcommittee charged with the job of apprehending Pelley, which so far the entire committee with all its investigative force has not been able to do.

White House Reception.

ONE step to the right or one step to the left might be a false step tomorrow night at the White House. Every step is carefully mapped in advance to avoid a faux pas at the diplomatic reception. The state department has sent an instruction sheet to diplomats to inform "Their Excellencies and Messieurs the Chiefs of Mission" just how to behave at the party. Everything must be punctilious, de rigueur, and protocolaire.

Once war was almost declared between Paraguay and Bolivia because the Bolivian peace delegates stepped over the silver cord which guides the receiving line toward the president and shook hands with Mr. Hoover ahead of the Paraguayan delegates.

The Paraguayans, standing patiently in line, their knees tired, their faces perspiring, finally arrived at a point of vantage opposite President and Mrs. Hoover. A great honor awaited them. But before they could grasp the presidential hand, they saw that the Bolivians had been there ahead of them.

So the Paraguayans stepped out of line, forewent the greeting to Hoover and went home. Next morning they protested formally to the state department, and the state department very humbly apologized.

The state department is hoping that no international incidents take place this year between the Russian and Finnish diplomats, or the British and the Germans, or any others. For that reason the instructions are painfully explicit, and most diplomatic missions will rehearse the formality of being presented to the president.

This is a ceremony by no means as formal as being presented at the Court of St. James's. In fact, the Roosevelt have made it quite informal. Nevertheless, it must be correct. Here is what happens: The ambassador of each country enters the Blue Room with his wife. Behind him come the diplomatic secretaries, naval and military attaches with their wives—like a flock of chickens, the Japanese especially so, for their embassy staff is the largest.

The Ambassador stands opposite the president, while his wife steps over to the side of Mrs. Roosevelt. Then members of the staff file between the president and the ambassador, while he presents each.

Then the group files on into the dining room, the ambassador usually heaving a big sigh of relief. For many an ambassador has stumbled over the names of his own staff in introducing them.

Aviation Instructors.

U. S. FLIERS are being quietly hired as instructors for the pilot-training camps Britain is setting up in Canada.

Employment is strictly on a civilian basis. The men wear no uniforms and engage only in instructional work. This is entirely within American laws.

Almost everything about these British aviation camps is American. In addition to American instruction, all the primary training planes are either of American manufacture or made in Canada under American patent. Also, much of the work of organizing and equipping the camps is by Americans.

According to confidential intelligence reports, Canada's severe winter weather is slowing up the training program. This experience will be stressed by the Civil Aeronautics Authority when it seeks more money for the U. S. civil pilot training program at the coming session of congress.

At present 9,700 students in 435 colleges, plus 700 non-college youths are being trained. The CAA wants to increase this to 15,000 next year and also give advance flying instruction, which will necessitate $7,000,000 instead of $4,000,000.

Ohio Anecdotes

Statehouse Square.

THE Ohio State House square in Columbus 102 years ago was being farmed by Jarvis Pike, later Columbus' first mayor.

Enclosed a worn rail fence, the 10-acre plot was devoid of trees or shrubbery when farming was discontinued. For a time the 10 acres were a commons on which the village youngsters played, until Alfred Kelly, a state agent, directed the elm trees be planted on the ground and that it be a state park.

The ancient rails were replaced by a new fence, painted white and of cedar posts and oak paling, the plot taking on the appearance of a public park.

Previously, however, a traveler recorded that the public square was nothing but a clover field on which were kept a drove of grunting, squealing swine.

TELL BILL GOODBYE + + + + +

CHAPTER TWENTY

IT RAINED the Saturday that Fabienne was moving from her spacious, luxurious quarters to the small room at the back of Ellen's apartment. It was a cold, spirit-chilling rain that sluiced over the windows and dripped drearily on the roof of the terrace below Fabienne's windows, beating out a dirge to mark the passing of comforts.

The room at Ellen's had a big four-poster bed that took up most of the space, a writing desk and big easy chair, fresh frilled curtains at the windows and lamps that cast a cheery glow over the freshly painted walls. It was comfortable and attractive. But its single window looked over a brick court and presented a view very different from the one that Fabienne faced from her hotel window.

The broad areas of the park, for all that they were brown and gray with winter's blight and January rain, gave her a feeling of space. Space, she thought wildly as all men do when the limitless fields of peace are not within the domain of their own hearts. I must have space! As if an answer lay over the far horizon, an answer to the inarticulate cry for fulfillment.

That cry was deep in Fabienne Seymour, although she did not know it for what it was. If she had had a gift for divining the depths of herself, she would have known that chance had swayed her from the destiny toward which her twenty-four years had been pointed.

Who is there to know that the fit of pique that sent her footsteps on the unaccustomed path of service was not something more? A pre-ordained means, perhaps, of sound the sleeping good that had been wasted in the soft, selfish pattern by which she had lived.

For the changes in her character had been many since that autumn day when she had first come to Willoughby house. Not that she was willing to recognize a growing strength and grace and unselfishness in herself. Later, she thought it was the gift of love that had erased her former values and taught her the real meaning of life.

In a sense, at this period of her life—this novitiate that was her experience in working for others—it was not Bill Mallory, or her feeling for him, that was molding the fine, strong lines of her character. It was her feeling for him that had first made her aware of a quickened sense of living. But that was the poor, the unfortunate themselves—and Ellen Chapman—who had made her feel a sense of responsibility that she was never to rid herself of.

As for her feeling for Bill, she had met that problem twice. The first time she had told herself, with conviction, that her brief unhappiness had been only frustration. The second time had been recent; it was on Christmas day that she had decided she wanted to have him for her friend.

The cry within her was not strident, was not voiced. Not even once did she say to herself, "This is the man I want. I know now that I want and need love." No, for she believed that it was not true.

And yet when Ellen invited her to share her home, instinctively Fabienne had said she must have a room that would guarantee her privacy.

It would not be privacy like this, she thought, sweeping the living room with her glance. She went on into the bathroom and looked for a long time at the gleaming tiles, the mammoth bath, the great thick towels. She turned her back on them and went out to close the last of her three trunks.

Not for many years was she ever to know luxury like that which she was leaving. But the years were to be filled with greater happiness than sybaritic pleasures had ever brought her.

She was putting on her hat when a sharp knock sounded at her door. It would be the porters coming for her trunks.

"Come in," she called.

"Thought I'd surprise you," Nicky drawled in his nice, easy voice from the door.

"Nicky!" She flew across the room, kissed him and told him that he was the proverbial sight for sore eyes.

"What's all this?" he asked, waving his hat in the general direction of her luggage.

"I'm moving. Going out into the cold, cruel world," she said, suddenly feeling sorry for herself. She added, "I'm moving down to Twelfth street with Ellen Chapman. Remember her? I wrote you about her."

"Remember her!" he snorted. "The woman that ruined my life! How I rue the day I ever consented to drive you to those slums! What is this strange power this female has over you? She must be a she-wolf in sheep's cloth."

"That'll do, Nicky. Ellen is the one real person I've known in my life and she hasn't done anything but show me the way to the most interesting thing I've ever done. If you knew Ellen, you'd feel the same way I do about her."

Later Nicky told her that he'd build her all the theaters she wanted—on his grounds at the place in Maryland.

"But she was quite wrong. I drove up this morning with Not since the days before her mother had told her she must marry Nicky had Fabienne liked him as much as she did that night.

Perhaps when she finished the theater project at the settlement house, it would be a good time to make a decisive move in her life. To marry Nicky and make a home and family life for herself.

She looked at his profile covertly, liking it, as she rode beside him in the tonneau of Mirabel's town car in which he had driven from Maryland. It was cozy and warm in the car. Outside it was cold and wet and lonely. Inside was the little world she preferred.

It was after nine and her luggage was in the truck that preceded them down Fifth avenue and turned into Twelfth street, while she was thinking those things.

The car pulled up in front of Ellen's apartment house. Fabienne said, "We'll have to get someone in the apartment—the superintendent—to help the driver. He

Mansfielder Thanks 'Vendol' Hasn't Felt So Well In Years

Gave gratifying relief from constipation; then dizziness, muscular aches and pains, and nervousness were relieved. Advises others to try this medicine.

"I really haven't felt so well in years and give Vendol all the credit for the big improvement in my looks and feelings," said Mrs. W. A. Wible of 91 E. Third St., Mansfield, to the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store.

"I had been feeling terrible for some time and had tried different things but with little help. I was constipated almost every day and this was making me suffer from muscular pains in my arms, back, limbs, and feet, and was also the cause of my nervousness, dizzy spells, and spots dancing before my eyes and kept me feeling shaky and worn out. I really can't begin to tell how those pains in my legs and small of my back made me suffer.

"I often read what people all around here said about Vendol relieving these same troubles that were due to constipation. So I got some Vendol and a box of the little Vendol laxative tablets and started taking this medicine.

"Truly, it seemed it was made especially for me because it helped so much that I haven't felt so well in years.

"First, Vendol relieved my constipation in the nicest, most complete fashion, then the aches and pains grew less and less every day; the dizzy feelings and spots before my eyes passed off, and my sleep became restful and unbroken. All of this added up to grand relief so I am glad to tell about it so that everyone suffering the same way, if from the same cause, will not hesitate to get Vendol and see for themselves the marvelous relief it gives."

Give Vendol a chance to help you too. Try this medicine made from extracts of Roots and Herbs with Alkalines added. All drug-gists sell it and the Vendol Man is daily at Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & Fourth Sts., to explain about it, so see him today.

'COAL BUGGIES'

ROME—(AP)—With strict gasoline rationing in effect throughout the country, Italian chemists are experimenting with a new type of "super-charcoal" to be used in cars equipped with wood burning apparatus as a substitute for gasoline power. The new product is chemically treated to release additional carbonic oxide from the burning charcoal, which is used as the motive power.

SOVIET ARMY GETS SET FOR CRUSHER BLOW

Finnish Reports Claim 1,000 Planes Also Ready for 'Big Push' Onslaught.

"Severe fighting occurred also at the eastern front, particularly at Tolvaarvi, and cost the Russians a severe defeat. Three enemy battalions were destroyed. We captured 27 machine-guns, 25 express rifles, 13 machine-pistols and other materials and, in addition, destroyed several tanks."

Several of 29 survivors from the ship, identified as the 2,317-ton Bollholm, declared upon reaching the Finnish port of Mantyluoto yesterday that the attacker was a Russian undersea craft. There was no positive identification.

The captain, second officer and radio operator were killed when the submarine fired 15 shells into the vessel.

(The fierceness of Finland's resistance was emphasized by reports reaching Moscow from Leningrad which told of a steady stream of Red casualties from the Finnish fronts. Unofficial advice said churches at Leningrad had been converted into military hospitals.)

See Red Plan to Cut Finland In 2 Parts.

BULLETIN
COPENHAGEN, Denmark—(U.P.)—Finnish re-inforcements were reported striking back desperately today in a counter-offensive against the Russian army drive across mid-Finland toward the Gulf of Bothnia and the Swedish frontier.

COPENHAGEN—(U.P.)—Russia has opened two tremendous drives across mid-Finland in hope of reaching the Gulf of Bothnia and cutting Finland in two, reports reaching northern capitals said today.

Dispatches indicated that the biggest battle of the Russo-Finnish war was fast developing and was likely to start within two or three days on the mid-Finland front between Hyrynsalmi and Kurve, to the north.

The Finnish position on this front, it was indicated, was critical. The Finns were called upon to stop with sheer courage two great Russian armies, overwhelmingly superior in numbers, armaments and equipment.

Two corps of the Russian ninth army, according to reports, were advancing southwestward from the Salla Area, just above the Arctic circle, and northwestward from Suomensalmi, 105 miles east of Uleaborg, important Finnish port on the Gulf of Bothnia.

The Suomensalmi corps was reported to be nearing Hyrynsalmi, and a continued advance would put it in position to drive either directly west toward Uleaborg or veer off northwestward and seek to meet the other corps at the railroad junction of Rovaniemi, 60 miles east of Tornea at the top of the gulf.

Russian Churches Turned Into Hospitals.

MOSCOW—(U.P.)—Churches in Leningrad were converted into military hospitals today as a steady stream of red army casualties from the Finnish fronts overtaxed the city's regular hospital facilities.

While Tass, soviet official news agency, distributed without comment Russia's rejection of the League of Nations' mediation offer in the Finnish dispute, newspapers gave glowing reports that Finns welcomed their Russian "liberators" in the army-occupied sections.

Workers in the United States, Britain and Sweden, the newspapers said, welcomed the new communist-headed Finnish "people's government" set up at the border village of Terijoki.

Red Star, organ of the army, said that workers of United States as elsewhere throughout the world looked to the soviet union for leadership.

On the diplomatic front, speculation was aroused by the arrival of Dr. Joseph Tiso, president of Slovakia, on an undisclosed mission.

A red army communique reported yesterday that troops occupied two Finnish villages and the railroad station of a third. The advance was reported to have reached Markajarvi, seven miles southwest of Salla and 45 miles within the frontier in central Finland.

Speaking on "Catholic Education is Real Education," John Leibfritz was adjudged the winner of an oratorical contest conducted last night by St. Peter's High school in the school auditorium.

Leibfritz was one of nine boys from the junior and senior classes who participated in the contest. The winner, who is president of the senior class, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Leibfritz, 25 Arthur avenue.

Second place was awarded to John E. Graf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl U. Graf, 411 Sherman place. His topic was "Chemistry Makes a New World." George Armbruster, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Armbruster, 39 Lexington avenue, was third. He spoke on "Peace, a Great Blessing of Mankind."

Prizes were presented by Msgr. R. C. Goebel, pastor of St. Peter's church.

Other contestants were Ralph Berger, Ernest Cappadonna, Fred Forth, David Massa, James O'Leary, and Charles Oswalt.

John Osgar presided as chairman of the contest. Judges were Frank Mahoney, W. B. Guisinger, Atty. Thomas J. McDermott, Fred Walters, and Joseph E. Kuebler.

Vocal selections were presented by William Michaels and music during the program was presented by the school orchestra.

LAUER CHOSEN

Ex-Chief New Secretary of Ohio Police Brotherhood.

William Lauer, former Mansfield police chief, was named secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Brotherhood of Police Officers today.

Lauer, who retired from active police work four years ago, was elected by the board of directors to fill the vacancy created three months ago by the death of H. E. McClure, also a former police chief who held the position since the organization was established about 10 years ago.

The directors re-elected Detective Lee J. Remy, president, and Lieut. Bruce Friday, vice president. Edward A. Bellevue, 9 Marlowe road, was renamed business agent.

Paroled Inmate Of O. S. R. Loses Girl Friend, Kills Self

Finding that his former "steady" girl friend had married while he was serving a term for robbery, an Ohio State reformatory inmate paroled two months ago, shot and killed himself yesterday in Cleveland.

International News Service dispatches from Cleveland said the man was identified by police as Stanley Rosolowski, 20, who was released from the reformatory on Oct. 1, after serving two years of a 10 to 25-year sentence for robbery.

After his release, the dispatches said, Rosolowski went in search of the girl and when she informed him of her marriage, he went into a washroom and shot himself.

While Mansfield and Richland county officials talk about it, other counties in the state are taking advantage of the federal grade separation program to eliminate dangerous railroad crossings. The picture at the top shows a new $102,000 structure on route 18, near Mallet creek, dedicated yesterday by Medina county officials. The span, constructed over the B. & O. railroad, similar to the structures proposed to eliminate dangerous railroad crossings west of Mansfield on U. FIGHT AHEAD

Senate Defeat Predicted for Reciprocal Trade Act.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Extension of the reciprocal trade program, advocated by President Roosevelt, was shaping up today as one of the biggest issues for the 1940 congress.

Shortly after the chief executive told reporters late yesterday that he would ask for renewal of the reciprocal trade act, which expires June 12, senate Minority Leader McNary (R-Ore.) predicted its overwhelming defeat.

The president said that the trade program should be continued in an effort to reach potential foreign markets.

Many of the foes, however, have said they opposed the program on the ground that it has permitted an increase in agricultural imports while this country faced crop surpluses.

SWEDEN HELPS

Plans to Give Material Aid to Besieged Finland.

STOCKHOLM—(U.S.)—Backed by surge of public opinion, Sweden today decided to give Finland material aid against Russia.

Forming a new cabinet of national union, and looking with what was officially described as "breathless tension" on the Soviet drive across Finland's "wast-land," Sweden determined to rush assistance to her neighbor republic before the Soviets cut off avenues of communication.

Before the end of the week, according to Swedish opinion, it may be decided whether the Russians accused of slicing across central Finland to the gulf of Bothnia at Kemi or Uleaborg, or whether winter's snow will hold up the partition drive until late spring.

SOVIET OUSTER FROM LEAGUE OF NATIONS NEARS

The ouster proposal was referred to the 13-nation committee on the Finnish-Russian dispute. Should it be included in their final report, it will be presented for a vote of the assembly this afternoon. To become effective, it must have the unanimous support of the league council, meeting tonight or tomorrow.

Rodolfo Freyre, Argentine delegate, told the assembly his government's decision to resign is "unalterable" so long as Russia is a member.

His address was heard after the assembly learned officially of Russia's refusal to accept the league's offer to mediate her war with Finland.

"The league has no doubt lost all coercive force," Freyre declared, "but there still is one gesture that it has to make; one gesture that it cannot refuse to make, unless it is prepared to resign its function in the spirit of a truly suicidal defeat."

Freyre declared the Soviet Union had violated the league covenant and her non-aggression pact with Finland.

This, he declared, "constitutes a veritable challenge to the league and is an insult to all governments of which it is composed."

"The question now before us is whether we are going to continue to allow the perpetrator of this act of aggression to sit among us. My government considers this impossible."

Finland was one of three nations elected today to the league council, of which the U. S. S. R. also is a member.

Finland and the Union of South Africa were new members named to the body of 15. Bolivia, the third nation named for a three-year term, was re-elected.

Karl J. Hambro of Norway, league assembly president, read a telegram from Premier-Foreign Commissar Vacheslav Molotov rejecting the league's proposal to mediate the Russian-Finnish dispute, then called upon Freyre to make the only address of the morning session.

Freyre concluded with the words:

"Acting as an interpreter of my government's unalterable decision, I find it my duty to state with the greatest regret that the Argentine Republic can no longer consider itself a member of the league as long as the Soviet Union is able to claim that title."

BREMEN SAFE IN NAZI PORT

Germans Scoff at Britain's Claims She Refrained From Destroying Liner.

In connection with the alleged failure of British planes to bomb the Bremen, military circles scoffed at the claim in London that a British submarine which sighted the liner in the North sea had refrained from firing a torpedo because of the rules of warfare.

The Bremen and her sister ship, the Europa, are being heavily guarded at their ports, the exact location of which has not been announced.

In London the British press angrily assailed the admiralty for allowing the Bremen to reach a "home port" despite the fact that the huge vessel passed within torpedo range of a British submarine, as an admiralty announcement stated.

"Why didn't we sink the Bremen?" shouted blazing headlines in the London Daily Express.

"Are we at war or not?" queried the London Daily Mail.

The British public is now asking "obvious questions," added the London News Chronicle.

"The Evening News jeered at Britain's 'kid glove warfare.'"

BULGARIAN BORIS ONE KING STILL COUNTRY'S BOSS

He's Whole Show Yet People Agree Stern Measures Now Required.

(By Associated Press)
SOFIA, Bulgaria—With the temporary suspension of the So-branzy (Bulgarian parliament) there is new attention given to the fairly tall, thoroughly immaculate and slightly stooped person of King Boris III, who makes a hobby of driving railway locomotives, and who employs the same firm hand in ruling his kingdom of 6,000,000 people.

Pending new general elections in late December and January, King Boris is again in the open position of conducting a "personal regime," since even the facade of Democratic government is now removed for the time being.

He is now, you might say, pretty much the whole show in Bulgaria. He has the support of army circles, both active and reserve.

He has the respect of his people and the love and affection of a large share. The number one man in Bulgaria, by deserved as well as acquired title, King. Politician. Diplomat. A unique figure in European politics.

Although some dissension bubbles under the surface, the Bulgarian public has accepted the suspension of their parliament with remarkable calm.

This is due, in part, on the ban on any open political activity; the restraints on public expression of feelings. In part, however, it must be accepted as tribute to the Bulgarian monarch. There is a wide belief in Bulgaria that King Boris is a smart man and that what he does must have point and purpose.

The Bulgarian public realizes that this country is in a difficult position today. To an extent at least it shares the obvious conviction of King Boris that this is no time to risk any recurrence of the sort of strife that Bulgaria has known in the past.

Leaders Summoned.
His most recent political move, and a bold one in many respects, was to summon sixteen outstanding political leaders to the royal palace to get their opinion on foreign and domestic problems.

The assumption was that he intended to appease opposition circles in Bulgaria's "non-political" parliament. The assumption was that he intended to make a gesture towards a return to party politics.

Instead, through his loyal prime minister, George Kioseivanoff, he dissolved parliament—promised a new election.

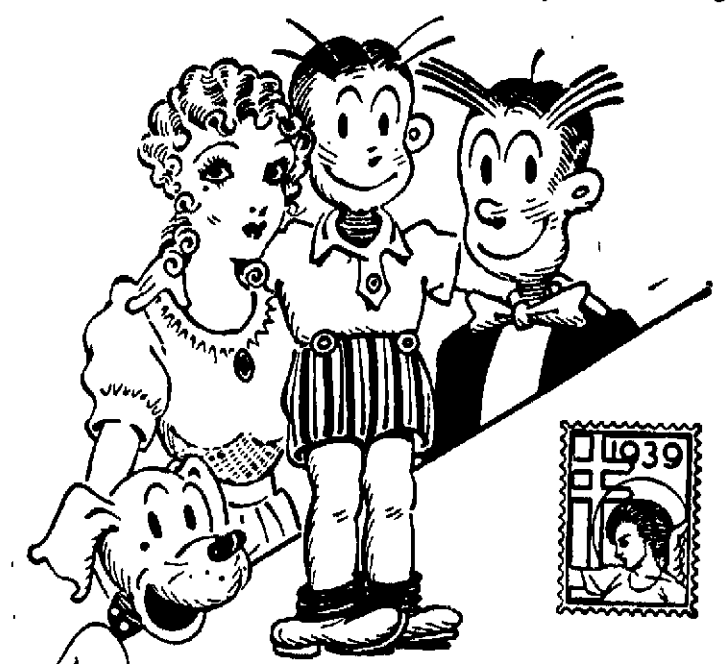

He can talk on even terms with a peasant, and he can, with a brilliant mind, and with eight languages at his command, give wit and brilliance to any conversation. He has a calm, reflective way of listening to the opinions of others; a quiet, but forceful way of expressing his own.

There is a popular belief that his delay in marrying was due to its intense pre-occupation with the affairs of his kingdom, and there is evidence enough to back this up.

If his marriage, to the Italian Princess Giovanna, proved popular, the fact that his marriage has provided an heir to the throne has further endeared the match to the Bulgarian public. Crown Prince Simeon is now three years old.

There may be interesting problems ahead for Bulgaria—the dangers of being involved in the present war, the new diplomatic offensives of Soviet Russia as they may affect the "little brothers" of Russia, and the varied questions of subdued but not quiescent in-

LONDONERS LEAVE OVER 200 GAS MASKS IN SUBWAYS DAILY

(By International News Service)
LONDON—Although some 200 gas masks are daily left in subways and other trains controlled by London Transport, Londoners on the whole are more careful today than ever before.

Fortunately for the losers of gas masks, the majority of the boxes containing the masks have the owners' names and addresses on them.

Another new line in lost property is electric torches. They are reaching London lost property offices at the rate of a hundred a day.

And as one electric torch is very much like another, the owner has almost to swear an affidavit before he can establish his claim to it.

Other articles lost, however, are not so numerous despite the black-out.

Gloves, umbrellas and brief cases, the most "popular and easily" lost articles of Londoners and for which lost property offices heretofore allocated special shelves, are now among the "miscellaneous."

The chief losers of gas masks are men. Once they lose them many men do not trouble to ask for them back, and as the result hundreds of gas masks are today awaiting their owners.

"On the whole, however," said an official of London Transport, "travelers are getting more careful, and our lost property offices is not rushed nearly so much as one might expect."

During the past 40 years cigarette smoking has maintained a rapid rise, climbing from 34.9 per capita in 1900 to 1,256 in 1938.

Cigar consumption has had a strange history. It was highest at 86.4 in 1907. Then it fell gradually until 1935 when it began to rise again.

The old slogan, "men who chew are men who do" has lost its potency, for tobacco chewing has dropped since 1900 when the average per year was 2.64 pounds. It was only .90 of a pound last year.

There has been little change in the amount of pipe smoking tobacco used in the last 40 years.

Internal politics. But for the time being Boris III of Bulgaria is not only monarch but political leader as well of his people.

Unlike his father, Ferdinand, he is no Germanophile but has, if anything, a leaning towards the western powers in personal sympathies. Unlike his father, he dominates Bulgarian politics more out of necessity than out of personal desire to dominate.

Santa and the TALKING DOLL by SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Santa has taken a gift to the King of Westphalia, a doll made by the fairies so she can talk after midnight. Eric, the son of Lightning, who wanted the doll, has been put to sleep for a day and a night by the fairies.

CHAPTER NINE The Glass Man.

FOR an hour that night Leezen sat silently watching the King of Westphalia. He stared motionless into the leaping fire. It was so silent in the great hall that Leezen could hear the soft swish of snow against the windows. She reached for a little gold box on the table and opened it. There lay a flashing sapphire.

She held it up to the fire, and turned it in the light so that pink lights darted from it. "Oh, I wish Eric could see this," she thought. Then the stone felt queer in her fingers. She looked sharply, and as she did, it turned into a little man, only two inches high. He seemed to be made of blue-white glass. He bowed.

"Why, who are you?" whispered Leezen.

"I'm just a thought some one is thinking of you," said the little man. "Usually I lie asleep in that sapphire. But when anyone picks me up I can reflect the thought of a friend."

"I see," said Leezen. "But who is thinking of me?"

"Look," said the little man. He pulled out a tiny flute, no bigger than a pin, and began to play, "Lee-zen, Lee-zen."

"It's Eric," said Leezen with shining eyes.

A Sad Tune.

Blacksmith Who Guarded Kaiser During War Dead

UNIONTOWN, Wash. — (INS) — With the death of Adolph Sweitzer, 51-year-old blacksmith, Uniontown mourned its most colorful character.

For Sweitzer reputedly was a member of the bodyguard that flanked Kaiser Wilhelm Hohenzollern of Germany during World war days.

The husky blacksmith, who delighted townspeople with his tales of the splendor of Imperial Germany, scorned the traditional garb of blacksmiths. He piled his billows in shiny boots and immaculate breeches and bore himself with the severe uprightness of a born soldier.

Sweitzer attended the Kaiser through the World war and then lost his position when the monarch abdicated and was exiled to Doorn. He came to America to find peace ten years ago, leaving in the fatherland two sons.

GRAND COULEE DAM, Wash. — (INS) — Sometime in 1941 when Grand Coulee Dam is expected to be completed, approximately $50,000,000 in wages will have been paid to workers, according to government figures.

Workmen have already received $35,000,000. Average wage paid on construction of the world's largest dam is $1.10 per hour.

Typhus, Spotted Fever Spreading, Scientists Claim

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Possibility that typhus and spotted fever may be spreading throughout the country was recently expressed by Dr. Rolla E. Dyer, of the United States Public Health Service at a meeting of the College of Physicians in Philadelphia.

Dr. Dyer, a pioneer in the study of the fevers, pointed out that the Rickettsiae microbe, responsible for spotted fever, was until 1925, found only in the Rocky Mountain regions. In 1938 it had spread to all except eight states. As far as is known, the disease is carried by wood ticks and dog ticks.

Typhus fever is spread by rats and is communicated to man by fleas. Dr. Harrison Flippin, of the University of Pennsylvania, reported that typhus cases have been present in mild form in the Philadelphia area since 1911 but three hours until it stopped, trembling, its tongue hanging out, an easy camera target.

Typhus fever, which until recently has been localized in the southern states, has a mortality rate of 3 per cent while that of spotted fever is 25 per cent.

BAFFLES WARDEN

ROMSEY, Hampshire, Eng. — A resident of this town was ordered to "put out that light" by an air raid warden. Denying that a light was on the householder and warden investigated and found that the "light" was the moon shining through a window at the back of the house to a window in the front. The warden thereupon ordered the householder to draw a blind and stop the uninterrupted ray of light.

DOWNES ELK

ABERDEEN, Wash. — (INS) — Norman Bright, famous Olympic games distance runner, ran a big bull elk to a standstill on a recent mountain climbing trip and has a picture of the elk to prove it. Spotting the elk, Bright grabbed a camera from one of his four companions and chased it three hours until it stopped, trembling, its tongue hanging out, an easy camera target.

ORGANIZATIONS HAVE VARIETY OF SESSIONS

Luncheons Served to Pilgrim Guild, Bethany Circle, St. Paul Group, Mayflower Class Elects Officers.

BOTH large and small organizations of various churches throughout the city had meetings yesterday. Some of them are reported here. There were 50 members and two guests of the Pilgrim guild of the First Congregational church present in the library for the luncheon which was served at long tables decorated with Christmas appointments.

Mrs. Eugene Flory, chairman, was assisted by Mrs. R. H. Emerson, Mrs. D. W. Feiser, Mrs. Richard Fishback, Mrs. Alex Fraser, Mrs. Merritt Giles, Mrs. Russell Gimbel, Mrs. J. H. Gongwer, Mrs. John Graham, Mrs. Fred Hollibaugh and Miss Ruth West.

A program followed with Mrs. R. D. Campbell, president, introducing Mrs. V. H. Lodde who read the play, "The American Way," by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman. The play tells the story of a German immigrant family.

The next meeting will be held at the church Jan. 9 with Osborne Meese as guest speaker.

Red tapers, balsam boughs and pine were used for decorations yesterday when a 1:30 p. m. luncheon was served to members of Bethany circle of the First Presbyterian church. Mrs. O. I. Alverson, Mrs. Harvey Bailey, Mrs. Lowell Bourns, Mrs. R. E. Lewis, Mrs. L. B. Paster, Mrs. Thomas Price and Mrs. Nick White were the hostesses.

Mrs. George Ingram, vice president, conducted the business meeting, after which a musical program was given by Mrs. Paul Eliot. She read "On Christmas Day In the Morning" by Grace Richmond, with Mrs. R. B. Barker serving as accompanist. Mrs. L. S. Houk played the violin numbers and Mrs. Clifford Faust sang. Mrs. Frank Russell, Arlington avenue, will entertain at the January meeting. Levering, Edith Swadner, Ray-

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels each day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your foundation is shaky. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up."

Harmonious, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Refuse anything else. At all drug stores. 10¢ and 25¢.

Wedded Dec. 9 At Greenup, Ky., At Home In City

Announcement was made today of the recent marriage of Miss Lois Barnes to Harold Gretzinger. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. J. R. Loper at the Methodist parsonage in Greenup, Ky., on Dec. 9. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mabel Barnes of Greenup, and Mr. Gretzinger's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gretzinger, 36 Dawson avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Salter of this city were the couple's only attendants. The bride was attired in a soft white dress of a pastel blue with dubonnet accessories for her wedding, and she carried a bouquet of lilies. Mrs. Salter was attired in a navy blue ensemble with matching accessories, and her arm bouquet was of white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Gretzinger are now making their home at the Dawson avenue address. The bride is a graduate of Greenup high school, while Mr. Gretzinger who is employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, was graduated from Perryville high school.

University Study Groups Conduct Regular Meeting

Three study groups of A. A. U. W. were in session last evening. Members of the three Literature groups met at the home of Mrs. Frank Lane, 907 Park avenue, west, and Somerset Maugham's book, "Christmas Holiday" was reviewed by the hostess Mrs. W. E. Slabaugh will have the next meeting, Jan. 23, at her home, 589 Andover road.

Miss Elsie McFadden entertained members of the Travel group at her home on Lexington avenue. Mrs. George Ingram gave a report on the Amish during the evening. Plans were formulated for the study of Australia, which will be conducted at the next meeting, Jan. 16, with Mrs. Ingram, 22 West Augustine avenue.

Current problems members were the guests of Miss Margaret DeWitt, 199 Helen avenue, when she gave the program on "The Growth of Russia." The next meeting will be Jan. 16 with Mrs. F. A. Hoffman, 60 Helen avenue. Mrs. Harry Knox will talk on "Imperialistic Russia."

The next meeting will be held Jan. 9.

Members of the Semper Fidelis class of the South Main Street Evangelical and Reformed church held a gift exchange and covered-dish dinner party last night with Mrs. Charles Stockwell, Beethoven street. Games were played and Mrs. Roy Jones, Mrs. Jack Craig, Miss Lois Traxler and Mrs. Charles Bahl were the winners. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Earl Etzweiler, Glen avenue.

Chi Sigma Sorority Has Christmas Party

A Christmas party was an event of yesterday evening for members of the Chi Sigma sorority at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Bridge was in play at seven tables, and score prizes were won by the Misses Dorothy Crawford and Mary Garver.

An exchange of Christmas gifts followed, and a two-course luncheon was then served at the small tables, decorated with lighted red tapers and pine boughs. Hostesses for the affair included Mrs. Clifford Heaton, Miss Mary Lou Hout, Mrs. Elmore H. Houston, Miss Thelma Hursh, Mrs. Arthur Knight and Mrs. Charles E. Hunter. The next meeting of the sorority will be a routine business session at the hotel on Dec. 26.

Shopping Around... With MARIANNE

WITH the holiday season so near at hand, any number of formal dances are coming up in the social swirl, so if you'll be needing a new dress for these affairs, this is the time to hustle down town to buy one, because the local stores are showing many smart ones now.

If you like something that tends toward the sophisticated, I know just the dress that will please you—made of black taffeta, it's fashioned with a shirred bodice and very full skirt—and for color on the skirt, there are diagonal insets of multicolored striped satin. . . . Or, in case you prefer white, a striking gown of jersey is one with a wide red sequined girdle, dropped waist and the new harem hemline.

Speaking of jersey, I saw a pretty dinner dress of that material in a shade of aqua while shopping yesterday. . . . It was made with a very full skirt, lowered waistline and multi-colored jewel-studded bodice. . . . Gypsy rose, a lovely new shade, and one of the prettiest gowns I've seen in that color combines a satin bodice with a full net skirt and has a ruffle of the net trimming the neckline. . . . In another soft shade of rose, is a gay brocade moire frock with dubonnet velvet insets adding a rich note to the back of the skirt.

And evening wraps are really quite different and attractive this year. I saw a stunning one yesterday—a full length coat of black velvet with an attached hood, edged in sparkling rose and gold sequins. . . . There are snug little velvet mittens to match this wrap, and they're also trimmed with the same sequin design. . . . Then, too, you can purchase plain black velvet mittens as well as fluffy white angora gloves. . . . Reversible capes of red and black velvet are also smart. . . . And for just about the last word, there's a red wool coat with bright red velvet hood and trim—practically guaranteed to keep you warm.

JUST the gift for that special friend would be a smart little package containing a perfume case and flacon of perfume, in any one of three lovely scents. . . . Jasmine, a leather fragrance, and an oriental odor. . . . The gold case is shaped like a lipstick and isn't much bigger—there's a little wick concealed under a spill-proof cap, which comes from an inner glass tube so that it is always moist—but not drippy—and when touched to your hair, wrists or ear lobes, it imparts just enough of the fragrance to be pleasing. . . . Other helpful gifts in this same famous line, are beauty bath and cooling cleanser. . . . The beauty bath is just the thing for winter wind-lashed skins as it contains ingredients that soothe the skin and is to be applied before, instead of after the bath so as to help the soap lather and preserve the natural softness of the skin. . . . Cooling cleanser is invigorating and complete in the removal of make-up and is also a mild, pleasant deodorant. . . . Both these items come in good-looking packages blending luxuriously with ivory or white with a two-tone enamel cap to make attractive gifts.

The men on any woman's Christmas list are always a problem. . . . In fact, some of the most imaginative women draw a total blank when it comes to thinking up presents for the opposite sex—and even the most assured approach the subject with a good deal of nervousness. . . . But if you find yourself in that predicament, why not give something really different this Christmas that's sure to please—a hat! Strange as it may seem, that can be done much easier than you might imagine. . . . You can get a miniature hat box at the men's stores and put in it a certificate for a hat—to be selected by the receiver whenever he needs a new hat—and then he can get just the style he desires.

Note: The styles described above are available in Mansfield shops. You can learn where they may be obtained if you will telephone Marianne at The News-Journal between 1 and 2:30 p. m.—Canal 4251.

Poised Singers Club Gives Program At Senior High

A poised befitting a chorus of Carol Frank, Cora Balliet Elder, Anita McLaughlin, Catherine Stahl, Mary Lou Cooper, Faye Chamberlain, Vera Hughes, Eunice Neff and Laura Husung. Usherettes were Marian Reese, Norma Johnston, Harriet Johnston, Gladys Beer, Theodora Wendt, Jeanette Werner and Betty Bell.

Gertrude Metcalf, mezzo-soprano, guest artist, sang two units of classical selections, and was well received. Her rendition of "Ave Maria" from the "Fiery Cross" by Bach was sung with depth and feeling.

The chorus presented three groups of semi-classical songs, doing especially well with the familiar "I Heard a Forest Praying" by De Rose, and "Serenade" by Schubert. "Sweet and Low" by Barnby and "When Children Pray" showed effectively the training and talent of the large club.

Accompaniments were played by Leora Kay Herold and Margaret B. Hall. Edith Fletcher Jameson, director of the club, was in charge of the program. . . . Incidental solos were sung by Mary Jane Bellore, Thelma Reed,

Readings, Music On Program At Travelers Club

Christmas carols and holiday readings comprised the program which members of the Travelers' club enjoyed Tuesday at the Women's Club when Mrs. F. A. Chamberlain presided as hostess.

Four new members of the club participated in the program when they responded to introductions with appropriate Christmas readings. They were Mrs. Arthur Knight, Mrs. H. F. MacGrath, Mrs. Charles H. Workman, and Mrs. Frank Mace. Mrs. Henry T. Pritchard read the Christmas story from St. Luke, and Mrs. C. G. Hillier read "The Little Mixer," a Christmas story by Lillian Nicholson Shearson. Mrs. Avery Hand presided during the program, which was concluded with Mrs. D. Dalton Deeds singing "He Shall See His Flock," from Handel's "Messiah," "O Leave Your Sheep," by Cecil Hazeltine, and "The Little Cradle Hymn." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Albert Twitchell, who also played several Christmas carols of other countries, which are not so familiar to American audiences, and concluded the program by accompanying the club members in group-singing of carols.

A luncheon followed the program. Another meeting is scheduled for Jan. 9, at the Women's club, with Mrs. E. J. Gilbert as hostess, and John Love, columnist for the Cleveland Press, as guest speaker.

Name Mrs. Shay Delano President

Mrs. Willa Shay was elected president of the Delano auxiliary last evening during a meeting at Delano hall. Mrs. Mary Gerhart will assist her as vice-president. Other newly elected officers include: Mrs. Ruth Mauk, recording secretary; Mrs. Viola Baker, financial secretary; Mrs. Elmina Caugherty, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Shambaugh, news reporter; Mrs. Bessie Ricks, guide; Mrs. Janet Hamilton, guard; Mrs. Mary Sommers, Mrs. Alva Harnley, and Mrs. Hadwig Hamilton, trustees.

Mrs. Anna Crowl was in charge of the covered-dish dinner served at 6 o'clock, after which speeches on "Unionism" were given by Joseph Scanlon and Clay Crowl. The group made plans to distribute Christmas charity baskets. On Dec. 19, there will be a Christmas party and gift exchange at the hall, with Mrs. Crowl again in charge.

Members of the Navajo club and two guests, Mrs. Ella Burns and Mrs. L. S. Barr, are invited to the home of Miss Carrie Ross, Lambertson avenue, Tuesday for a 6 o'clock dinner and Christmas gift exchange. The group played cards after the dinner with Mrs. Ada Lurz and Mrs. Cora Maxwell receiving the gifts for high scores. Another meeting will be held Dec. 26 at the home of Mrs. Mary Baird, West Temple court.

ANNUAL HOLIDAY PARTY PLANNED FOR SOROSIS

Mrs. W. R. King Will Open Her Home for Affair Dec. 19; Members Attend Program on Australia at Club Tuesday.

PLANS for the annual Christmas party of the Mansfield Sorosis were made yesterday when the members met at the Women's Club with Mrs. W. E. Wygant serving as hostess. The social function will be held Dec. 19 at the home of Mrs. W. R. King, Edgewood road, with Mrs. W. H. Gifford serving as chairman. She will be assisted by Miss Ruth Culbertson, Mrs. W. J. Bishop, Mrs. Fred Troll, Mrs. A. E. Courtney and Mrs. L. B. Bourns.

Members brought gifts for the children at the Friendly House yesterday, and Mrs. H. L. Creveling announced that another book, "Goodly Fellowship" by Mary Ellen Chase, had been placed on the memorial shelf at the library in memory of Miss Caroline Lampert.

The first paper of the afternoon was given by Mrs. C. L. Allen on "Australian Aborigines." They are considered the most primitive of the savage tribes, the speaker told the club members, but, since the invasion of the white man they are decreasing in number. About 1650 there were 250,000 and today there are 59,000. Like our own American Indians they have lost much of their territory, being a nomadic people, but recently they have appealed to King George for protection and restoration.

In the absence of Miss Bertha Ruess, Mrs. Leroy McGinty read the paper prepared by Miss Ruess, and entitled "Writers of the Four Gospels." She told the story of the lives of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, in an appropriate holiday setting.

Miss Edna Erdenberger, president, conducted the business session, at which time the group decided to give a Christmas to an indigent family. Miss Mary Anderson was in charge of the evening's program.

Miss Sarah Alice Sloan was toastmistress, and she read two original poems to open the program. Miss Evangeline Williams sang two vocal solos, and a group of dancers from Marguerite Speas' studio presented several numbers. A gift exchange followed, and the program was closed with the singing of Christmas carols.

Three Star Girls Attend Party At Mansfield-Leland

The Misses Minnie Brandt and Pauline Schofield were hostesses at the Mansfield-Leland hotel last night for the meeting of the Three Star club. The 25 guests were seated at a long table decorated with candles, holly, pine and mistletoe. Music during the dinner was furnished by students from the Eugene Smart studio.

An exchange of Christmas gifts followed, and a Santa Claus gave each girl a gift from Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mead, gas company district manager and his wife. Dolls, which the girls had dressed to be given to charity this Christmas, were displayed, and Miss Donna Obenour, Crestline, was given a prize for having the best dressed doll.

Bridge was played at six tables, and prizes were won by Opal Crone and Lucille Smith, Ashland; Marie Gibson, Marion; Mary Lou Ford and Lillian Wilgung, Mansfield; and Marjorie Olinger, Bucyrus.

Miscellaneous Shower Fetes Mrs. Chester Frye

Miss Theresa Hallabrin feted Mrs. Chester Frye with a miscellaneous shower yesterday evening at her home on West Sixth street. Mrs. Frye was formerly Miss Kathryn Kaser. The guests played card games during the evening, and prizes were won by the Misses Marjorie Shasky and June Botzer, who presented their awards to the honoree.

Luncheon was served at a long table, lighted with tall tapers and centered with a large Santa Claus and small place favor Santas. Mrs. Frye was directed to the hiding places of her gifts by notes contained in a balloon. She received a gift of china from the hostess.

ANNUAL PARTY.

There were 25 members and two guests of the Amoma class of the St. Matthew's Lutheran church present for the annual Christmas party and gift exchange in the church parlors last evening. A covered-dish dinner was served at an early hour, for which Mrs. Wanda Yontz, Mrs. Modena Schwartzkopf, Mrs. Clara Mitchell and Mrs. Anna Butts were hostesses. Mrs. Mildred Meyer read the devotions, and Mrs. Yontz conducted the business. The place of the next meeting, Jan. 9, will be announced later.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Mary stared at me in horrified amazement. She is so honest herself that she cannot understand deep duplicity in others.

"Oh! no! Auntie Madge!" she wailed. "You really don't think that, do you? She's scatter-brained and malicious, but she's not as despicably low as that."

"We'll give her the benefit of the doubt in our thoughts," I said grimly, "but we're not taking any chances on her little plot succeeding, if she has one."

"I haven't time to devote to investigating how much she's involved. I'm only interested in spiking her plans, or those of Philip Veritzen, if he's developed any disposition to go back upon his agreement with me."

I rose and started for the door. Mary caught her breath.

"What are you going to do?" she asked faintly.

"I'm going to call Mr. Philip Veritzen at once," I said determinedly, "tell him I've just arrived, and that you and I will not be ready for rehearsals tomorrow—or today, I should say."

"Suppose he insists upon bringing over the crowd and going on with it right away?" she asked. "Fortunately, this happens to be my father's house, in which I am sole mistress," I told her. "He will not come here without my permission. But," I added, calming down a bit, "there will be no difficulty. I shall tell him I am so fatigued that I am upon the point of exhaustion, and cannot possibly undertake anything more until I have had a day's rest."

"You'll be speaking the truth, the whole truth and nothing but—at that," she interjected, but I did not take time to affirm or deny her comment.

"Philip Veritzen makes a fetish of his chivalry," I swept on. "He would have no possible argument to advance against a flat statement like that from me."

"You clever darling!" she apostrophized. "But—telephoning him at this hour—?"

"He can't be sleep," I said confidently. "He always turns night into day. He's probably in bed. I grant you, but luxuriously smoking and reading. However, I mustn't delay it any longer, for it is terribly late. If Mrs. Underwood comes for me and says that my father is ready to see me, will you tell her what I am doing and that I will be at my father's room as soon as I have finished? Explain to her just as you have to me. She knows all about the whole affair, you know."

"Yes, I know," she said, "and I'll tell her. 'Where are you going to phone, if she asks me?'"

"From the extension in my room," I told her. "She can find me there if she needs me."

"All right," Mary agreed, and I hurried out the door, meeting Lillian in the hall outside.

"Your father has sent for us," she said, slipping her arm through mine, expecting, of course, that I would hurry to my father's room with her. But I pulled away.

"I'll be there very shortly," I said, "but I have to telephone Philip Veritzen right away in order to spike some mischief. Mary will explain."

"I haven't time to listen to any explanation, and I don't need one," she said comprehendingly. "It must be something pretty urgent or you wouldn't be slighting your father's summons. But don't worry, I'll make him understand your delay. And"—her tone was suddenly grim—"give old Phil merry—you know what from me."

"I'll do that," I promised, laughing in spite of my fears, and then we hurried up the stairs together, parting at the door of my room.

"Don't hurry," she adjured. "I'll make your father understand."

"If I get a quick connection, I'll be over before you get through explaining," I told her. "I do not intend to waste much time upon Mr. Veritzen."

"Good girl," she commented, as I went inside my room, closed the door and called the hotel where Philip Veritzen was staying.

Tourist Members Hear Americanization Talk

Twenty-seven members of the Tourist club were guests of Mrs. Martin V. Wappner at the Ohio State Reformatory Tuesday, and heard Miss Henrietta Frank, the guest speaker, discuss "Americanization." During the program Mrs. Fred Berg told about "Christmas Foods Around the World." The members contributed gifts for the girls in the State Training school in Delaware.

During the short business session the members voted to contribute $10 to charity. The next meeting will be Jan. 2, a sealed program at the Women's Club in charge of Mrs. B. W. Forkner and Mrs. Elmer Post.

Mrs. Byron Brenner, 605 Crescent road, was hostess to the Dorcas class of the St. Matthew's Lutheran church with 20 members and three guests in attendance. Mrs. Maud Hoover led the devotions and was in charge of the business meeting after which there was an exchange of gifts.

Members decided to give a Christmas to a family. Luncheon was served at small tables decorated with tiny lighted trees. The next meeting will be Jan. 9 with Mrs. Foster Dize, 237 Wood street.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, December 14.

A very lively day, but one calling for much discretion and discrimination, is forecast by the lunar aspects. There is a menace of opposition, possibly from higher-ups and probably born of enmity, jealousy and deceit. With prudent handling of such matters, there are signs of progress, promotion and the friendship of those of prestige and influence. These may be cultivated with enhanced good fellowship resulting. Social factors contribute to a happy and fortunate day.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a lively, happy and productive year, with the friendly co-operation of those in high places. However, there is a menace of deceit that may threaten your credit and friendships.

A child born on this day may be versatile and ambitious, possessing many happy qualities for a successful life. It might have deep religious convictions, being thoughtful, prudent and magnanimous.

Girls Brave Atlantic For Love

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

In a war-crazed world, it's heartening to know that real love still survives.

Today's news brings a story of two English girls who braved hazards to marry American men. Mines, submarines and the frightful toll taken of shipping did not deter Mary Frances Harding and Patricia Swallow of Darbyshire from crossing the Atlantic to marry their sweethearts.

Miss Harding received a Cupid-inspired cablegram from Douglas H. Dies, a young newspaperman of Knoxville, Tennessee, asking her to come. She met Mr. Dies four years ago, when he was working for an American syndicate in London. And love-letters have flown thick and fast across the Atlantic ever since.

Mr. Dies could not leave his job and go to London for the wedding, and the thought of Miss Harding enduring blackouts and taking chances with air raids was too much—hence the beseeching cable. The young English girl proved she was not only a good sport but revered the traditions of a wedding as well. For, in addition to a hastily-packed trousseau, she brought along a crated wedding cake.

And if you will take your correspondent's word for it, there is really nothing better than a genu-

"The Authority on Authorities"

HE WANTS TO RUFF

If your partner has doubled the opponents' suit game contract in a situation where the bidding shows he could not have much high card strength or many trumps, he must be counting on taking tricks somehow. What other way could he have to do it?

Would it be likely to be by means of a ruff with one of his little trumps? If that is the way it sizes up, why not give him a chance by returning the suit he is likely to wish to ruff, especially if you yourself hold the ace of trumps and so can stop him from being dropped?

North bid 1-Diamond on this deal, East 1-Heart, South 1-Spade, West 2-Clubs, North 3-Spades, East 4-Clubs, South 4-Spades and West doubled. After leading the club K, West switched to the heart 10.

After that the responsibility for the hand devolved almost entirely upon East. The latter could well know that his partner could not have been expecting many club tricks, when East's support of it had marked the opponents as surely short in one hand or both. Therefore, West was counting on something else. At least that is the way East should have figured. After winning with the heart A, his play was to return a heart. The declarer, upon winning, would have led a trump to the A, whereupon East could have offered a third heart, which West would have ruffed for the setting trick.

East, however, after winning with the heart A, laid down his spade A first, to prevent club ruffs—as he explained later—and then a second heart. Thus he spilled the beans, for he could never get the lead again to offer his partner a third heart.

WITH MRS. HOUT.

Twenty-two members of the Star class of the United Brethren church met at the home of Mrs. H. M. Hout, Townview circle, last evening for a Christmas party and gift exchange. Mrs. John Egger, Mrs. Etta Hursh and Mrs. Zada Beamer were guests invited for the affair. Mrs. John Miller was in charge of the devotions, followed by an exchange of gifts. Hostesses assisting Mrs. Hout were Mrs. Eva Barr and Mrs. Anna Weir. A luncheon was served at the close of the evening. Another meeting, the date of which will be announced later, will be in charge of Mrs. John Miller, Mrs. E. B. Keller and Mrs. H. M. Keller.

Miss Mary Beilstein entertained, the E-T club with a 6 o'clock dinner party yesterday evening at her home on West First street. Mrs. Fred Mansfield and Miss Stella Arras were associate hostesses for the affair, which was attended by 18 members and two guests. Mrs. Hazel DeVore and Mrs. Hazel Reese.

Dinner was served at small tables decorated with holiday appointments, and during the social hour, there was an exchange of Christmas gifts. Mrs. Tunis Dillon has invited the club members to her home on Hammond avenue Jan. 9.

Holt's Resolution to Call 3rd Term 'Un-American'

BITTER SENATE BATTLE ON HOT ISSUE ASSURED

West Virginia Senator Terms
'Draft Roosevelt' Move as
'Challenge to Democracy.'

(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON — A senate battle over the New Deal's demand that President Roosevelt be drafted again in 1940 was assured today when Senator Rush D. Holt (D) of West Virginia, announced he will introduce a resolution, denouncing a third term as "un-American."

Declaring the third term issue is a "challenge to Democracy," Holt derided the declaration of staunch New Dealers that only Mr. Roosevelt can fulfill the presidential duties in the present world crisis. He listed a number of prominent Democrats, headed by Vice President John Nance Garner, as fully able of serving as president in any circumstances.

Holt prepared his anti-third term resolution early this year, but was talked into withholding it at the last session of congress. The resolution paraphrases the elder LaFollette's anti-third term declaration, approved by the senate in 1927 when President Coolidge occupied the White House.

The West Virginian said: "I will definitely introduce my resolution against a third term. This challenge on a third term is not a domestic issue. Through-out the world, we have seen the theory develop that one man is indispensable to a nation. Every government that has gone into dictatorship has started that way. Now we have Mussolini in Italy, Hitler in Germany, Stalin in Russia and Daladier in France.

"The greatest indictment of this country is pronounced by those people who say there is no man to take the president's place. If that is true, democracy is on the decline. If we have reached a state where only the president is capable of handling our governmental affairs, then surely democracy as we know it, is gone.

"I don't regard the third term issue as a challenge to Mr. Roosevelt. I regard it as a challenge to democracy."

Holt was asked to name those Americans, now in public life, whom he deemed capable of filling the presidency. He replied: "Although I am committed to no man for the nomination or the presidency, let me mention such outstanding figures, with ability, as Vice President Garner, Secretary of State Hull, Attorney General Murphy, Senator Wheeler, Senator George, Senator Davis, Senator McNamara, Senator Clark and Representative Hutton Summers, to say nothing of Republicans. There is no shortage of leadership."

High Court Says 25 Cent Auto Tag Fee Must Be Paid

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — The Ohio supreme court decided today that the automobile owner must pay a 25-cent fee when he obtains his license plates from a deputy motor vehicle registrar.

The court's decision was given in a Cuyahoga county mandamus action brought by Charles Bracken against J. Allen Weber, deputy registrar of motor vehicles.

Bracken alleged that he entered a fee of $7 as the tax on his automobiles for the year beginning April 1, 1939, and that Weber refused to issue the license plates without payment of the 25-cent fee.

The state court upheld a court of appeals decision which sustained the statutory provisions for collection of such a fee by a deputy registrar.

1,300 Cut From Relief, WPA Rolls In Year

Up and Down THE STREET

Not many people know it but one of the flashiest all-American halfbacks ever to tote the leather in collegiate and pro football is working near Mansfield. He's "Bob" Monnett, former Michigan State star and Green Bay Packer ace who retired from the game this year to take a job with the state highway department. A graduate engineer, he is employed on the grade separation project at Crestline.

Add Spring Notes: Although the Christmas atmosphere is prevalent, Mrs. Frank Will of Shelby contends it is difficult to tell the time of year by her flower garden, which is in full bloom. The weather has not been severe enough to kill the flowers, which include snapdragons, pansies and asters.

There should be a lot of volume to the Christmas carols broadcast from Central park at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, for more than 400 voices are expected to take part in the broadcast. About 200 Girl Scouts and a similar number of Boy Scouts and the John Simpson Glee club will sing under the direction of Miss Fannie Lew Eiler, director of choral music at the junior high school. The assembled voices will be broadcast over the public address system in downtown district which has been set up by the Mansfield Public Parks association. All of the boys and girls taking part in it, whether or not they have been notified, are to report to the park at promptly 7:15 Saturday night.

Three officials of the Marion municipal court, who will take office the first of the year, were interested observers in Judge G. E. Kallitisch's court in Mansfield this morning. Judge Dexter Hazen, elected last month, and his clerk, E. G. Lettler, and the court bailiff, George Lusch, Judge Hazen was particularly interested in the "managing" in which traffic offenses and driving while intoxicated cases are handled by the Mansfield court.

Motorist Fined $10, Accused of 60 Mile an Hour Speed.

John Jay Kokko, R. D. 6, lost his driving license for 60 days and was fined $10 and costs in municipal court this morning on a charge of careless and reckless driving.

Kokko was arrested by highway patrolmen, they said, after they chased him south on Trimble road at a speed of approximately 60 miles an hour. Patrolmen said he failed to observe the stop sign at Park avenue west road and Trimble and crossed the busy intersection at a high rate of speed.

Lewis L. Hill, Pittsburgh, pleaded not guilty to a charge of blocking the flow of traffic on a public highway. He was arrested by highway patrolmen when they found him parked on the highway on route 13, south. Hill said he had stopped to look up a route on the map. He was fined $3 and costs.

GRANGE TO ACT ON TAX 'ENEMY'

Ohio Members Start Draft of Policy Recommendations to Ease Load on Farmers.

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS — Members of the Ohio State Grange began policy-making deliberations today as they studied assertions by two leaders that taxation, relief and unemployment were the outstanding problems affecting their future well being.

Louis J. Taber, National Grange Master, declared "important enemies of farm ownership are high taxation and increasing debt service in state and nation," and predicted government cost increases.

The Ohio's grange's master, Walter F. Kirk of Port Clinton, said, "homes and real estate should be protected through retention of the 10-mill limitation and the requirement of the 65 per cent majority vote for special levies and bond issues."

Kirk added that national recovery should be speeded by "removing the shackles from business, increasing employment and reducing the relief burden."

Taber asserted that "the problem of adequate relief for those advanced in years and those unemployed demands a solution, but we must protect farms and homes from added tax burdens."

He proposed cutting farm product distribution costs, stabilizing labor income, developing new markets, and "awakening the American genius for business management."

The principal objectives of the national grange in 1940, Taber said, were helping to keep our nation out of war, lifting farm prices, and increasing grange membership.

EXPECT TAFT TO MAKE DETAILED REPLY TO ROOSEVELT CHALLENGE

(By United Press)
BOSTON — Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio was expected to reply in greater detail today to President Roosevelt's offer of a "very handsome prize" if he could point the way to balancing the federal budget "in about two years."

The prospective candidate for the 1940 Republican presidential nomination was informed last night that Mr. Roosevelt had issued the challenge when he heard that Taft had stated a balanced budget could be attained in two years under a Republican administration.

Taft foresaw destruction of "democracy itself" if the budget is not balanced. "After presenting a four-point program for the return of prosperity," Taft replied to the challenge by quoting from a speech made by the president:

"He (Mr. Roosevelt) said on July 30, 1932: 'Revenue must cover expenditures by one means or another. Any government, like any family, can, for a year, spend a little more than it earns, but you and I know that a continuation of that habit means the poorhouse.'"

Earlier, Taft had referred to the offer in a speech before the Republican club of Massachusetts by saying: "The administration apologists always say that the budget cannot be balanced. There is only one conclusion found to that argument. That conclusion is national bankruptcy and inflation, the destruction of the American system of private enterprise and probably the destruction of Democracy itself. That is what happened in Germany and Italy and Russia. It was an unthinkable alternative."

CITY REPORTS $54,000 DROP IN EXPENSES

11-Month Figures Show Nearly 100 Per Cent Reduction;
688 Get Aid Now.

A reduction of more than 1,300 persons from the direct relief and WPA rolls in Mansfield in the past year was shown in a report today by Relief Director J. Verne Finney.

Reflecting the decrease in the relief load was a $54,000 cut in the expenditures by the city during the first 11 months of this year, the report showed.

During the first 11 months of this year the city has spent approximately $63,000 for food, clothing and fuel for indigent families. Last year at this time direct relief costs totaled about $117,000.

The direct relief load during November dropped to 688 persons, decrease of more than 100 per cent from 1,426 who were on the relief rolls last year at this time.

600 On WPA Now.
Finney said that a total of 600 persons are employed now on government aided projects in the county as against a total of 1,169 employed in December, 1938.

The city's relief load has shown a steady decrease since March when the cost of maintaining indigent families hit $14,000.

The decrease in the WPA employment has been noted during the past four months, since the government instituted its 18-month "lay-off" rule.

Since then accelerated business and industrial conditions here have taken up the slack with the workers returning to private industry faster than the state WPA office has been able to assign new workers to sufficiently many projects in operation in the county.

Finney's report showed that although 133 persons were assigned to projects during November there were 351 persons still certified and awaiting assignment for work. Last month the total relief costs for Mansfield and Richland county relief areas, exclusive of Shelby were $9,392, practically the same as the amount spent in October.

The city's share of the cost last month was $5,685 toward which the state allocated $2,823. Richland county's expenditures were $3,706 of which the state paid $1,811.

BUY EQUIPMENT

Board Lets Contract for New Junior High Cafeterias.

Three contracts for a total of $2,636 for equipment for the cafeterias at the new John Simpson and Johnny Appleseed junior high schools had been let today by the Mansfield board of education.

Contracts were awarded on low bids to the Amster-Kirtz company, Columbus, which received the largest order, amounting to $1,436; Albert Pick and company, Chicago, $976, and the Goetz Hardware company, Mansfield, for $223.

The equipment includes roasters, boilers, trays, dishes, glassware, silverware and other utensils.

Letting of the contracts virtually completes the awarding for the two $450,000 school buildings which are expected to be ready for occupancy late next month.

FAIR ENOUGH!

What Has Changed About
Communism That U. S.
Followers Shun It Now?

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

WASHINGTON—Excuse, please, but I want to get the straight of this all-is-forgiven attitude toward those sneaks who not long ago were either comrades of Josef Stalin or fellow travelers, but had a sudden change of heart about the time of the Berlin-Moscow alliance. Some of our heavy-duty thinkers seem to believe that they will be sadder but wiser and much more reliable Americans from now on.

I want to know what makes anyone think so, because so far as I know Stalin hasn't changed and his stuff is still the same.

Now, to be sure, Stalin did stab the Poles in the back while Hitler was mauling them around in a terribly one-sided contest, but, after all, these Bolos of ours had always said Communism was a blessing to any people whom it happened to infect, and it would seem that Stalin just delivered his part of Poland from the capitalistic oppressors.

What wrong can any sincere Communist or traveler see in that? Similarly, what is the objection to the spread of this boon to Finland?

Certainly it will be necessary to kill off a few hundred thousand or possibly upward of a million Poles and Finns before the great effort for human betterment really begins to show results, but that happened in Russia, and our Bolsheviks thought it was maybe not just all right but at worst just something that couldn't be helped.

Moreover, if you remember, they thought it would be a fine thing for the United States to have a revolution here, with a lot of shooting in the streets, a lot of factory fires and explosions and a lively program of lynchings and similar Soviet sports.

That kind of thing was all right for the American nation, but the minute Comrade Stalin puts his beautiful scheme of deliverance into effect in Poland and throws a few bombs on the Finns indignation runs high among the American crummies, and they desert Stalin and want to be readmitted to American citizenship, so to speak.

But they knew all along what Stalinism was, and in view of this fact they cannot have been surprised at his methods and certainly have no ground to object to the spread of the lovely thing to other lands.

In our country they were doing the preparatory work as well as they could. They would try to kill off jobs for workmen by imposing impossible conditions on employers, so that the plants would fold up and the men would lose their jobs and finally riot.

They raised all the devilment they could in a thousand open and treacherous ways—all with the ultimate purpose of upsetting the power of the American government so that at the psychological moment the Communists could rise and lead Americans against Americans.

That was the kind of people they were then, and nothing that they have said since the Berlin-Moscow thing indicates that they have changed in the slightest degree. They are sorry for Poland and Finland, if I get the idea, because Stalin has got to give them the very thing which they, the Bolos, wanted to inflict on the United States—their own country.

What is the matter? Is this beautiful Bolshevism too good for the Poles and Finns? Is it still considered to be a wonderful thing for Americans? And if not, why not? Because it hasn't been revised by so much as a paragraph or a phrase.

All Stalin has done is to revise his political and military program, and if you want my version of it our Communists are sore at him only because he got them to commit themselves to certain plans and then crossed them up.

Rather than admit that they had no real important difference with Hitler, and that they were all wrong about the program, they have picked up their marbles and come home. Well, do Americans want to play with them now?

Aside from the treaty's bellicose potentialities, its arbitration provision can be hailed with optimism as a means of staving off recurrent strike crises. It represents an adult approach to the problem which has been seriously lacking before.

And out of it all might come, in the end, the enduring peace which would be Hollywood's greatest boon. An industry which has always made publicity capital, until recent years, of its fabulous wealth isn't going to make friends for itself by constant internal squabbling over the spoils.

There's reason to doubt that the general public can work up much sympathy either for rich producers, stars and other talent, or for workers whose wage scales are high even though, as the union committee insists, their average annual wage is around $900.

The general public, in fact, might get pretty sick of the whole fuss, and of Hollywood and all its works.

IN COLOR ON SUNDAY

By Chester Gould

YOU SAY YOUR NAME'S VILLER.

I HAVE NO FAMILY, I LIVE WITH MY GRANDMOTHER

IS YOUR FATHER LIVING?

ID RATHER NOT SAY.

THIS VILLER I KNEW HAD BEEN OUT OF TOWN FOR QUITE A WHILE. HE JUST CAME BACK. HE HAD BEEN—

STOP! STOP!

I KNOW WHAT YOU'RE GOING TO SAY! THAT'S WHY I'M LIVING WITH MY GRANDMOTHER. STOOGE VILLER IS MY—

YOU NEEDN'T SAY IT, KID! I UNDERSTAND—AND IT'S GOING TO BE OUR SECRET.
